

ACCEPTED BY ALGER.

The Battle Monument Erected at West Point.

THE DEDICATION CEREMONIES.

Justice Brewer Delivered the Oration. The Presentation Made by General Schofield—Tributes to the Soldier Dead at Many Places.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 1.—In the presence of 5,000 people the secretary of war and many high officials of the army, the battle monument erected by their comrades in honor of the officers and soldiers of the regular army who fell in battle in the civil war, was dedicated. Everything conspired to make the dedication of the monument an impressive and dignified ceremony. Among those who occupied seats on the speaker's stand were Secretary Alger, General Merritt, General Ruggles, General Franklin, General Butterfield, General Stanton, Paymaster General Viele, General Saxton and General James Longstreet.

The exercises opened with an invocation by Chaplain Shipman, which he prefaced with the recitation of the Lord's prayer, those in the pavilion joining.

Then followed a history of the monument by Brigadier General John M. Wilson, chief of engineers, U. S. A. General Schofield responded and in the name of the donors presented the monument to the army of the United States.

Following is in part the speech of Secretary of War Alger accepting the monument for the United States government:

"General Schofield—By command of the president, in whose name I appear today, I accept for the government of the United States this beautiful monument erected to her honored dead. It will stand a lasting monument to those men who gave up their lives to save this nation from destruction when the question of its existence was given over to the arbitrament of arms. This is the fittest spot in the land for its abiding place. Here is the soldier school of the republic, famed for the classic beauty of its surroundings, and sanctified by its association with the names of men whose genius and valor in defense of the government which educated them to the profession of arms and whose loyalty to the flag which here in their early manhood they were taught to love, has brought imperishable renown to the country of their devotion. This, too, is the fittest day of all the year for its unveiling and dedication, for it is the day set apart by the people and by law for popular tribute to those who on land and sea who offered their lives as a willing sacrifice upon the altar of loyalty and liberty.

"In the history of all nations that which has made them great in prosperity and in strength has been achieved in war, and the brightest of its pages are illumined by the deeds of knightly men in the field. It can truthfully be said that greater disaster can come to a nation than war, for life without honor is not worth the living. The spotless integrity of the men who have graduated at this great academy in their official and daily lives is a guide for you and wherever you may be called."

After the singing of the Star Spangled Banner Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court responded.

Justice Brewer said: "We stand today in the presence of a stately column, erected by the soldiers and officers of the regular army of the United States, to commemorate the heroism and sacrifice of those of their number who during the civil war gave their lives for their country and in order that liberty and union might remain one and inseparable now and forever. It speaks of heroic achievements. It is eloquent with the suffering and self-denial and sacrifice which the great war developed and ennobled. But beyond all that, it bears two voices, which I fain would catch in the words of my talk, and speak to every citizen of the United States."

TO THE SOLDIER DEAD.

Tributes Paid to Their Memory at the Different Places.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Memorial day was generally observed in Washington. The bronze statues of the nation's heroes on land and sea in the government reservations and parks were shrouded in the flags under which they fought. Memorial exercises were held in the various cemeteries. The most imposing ceremonies, of course, were held at the National cemetery at Arlington, on the Virginia side of the Potomac opposite Washington. Among the most famous of the heroes buried beneath the spreading oaks and elms are General Sheridan, the great cavalry leader; Admiral Porter, the hero of Mobile; Brigadier General Harney and General Ricketts. The exercises at Arlington were made particularly memorable by the presence of President McKinley. They began with a national salute of 21 guns from the light battery, Fourth artillery, United States army.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The weather was intensely hot at General Grant's tomb, but 3,000 persons assembled there to take part in the exercises of U. S.

Grand post No. 327, G. A. R. of Brooklyn. Flowers were deposited in the crypt on the sarcophagus. To the left was a magnificent floral contribution from the Chinese minister, and to the right an immense wreath, presented by the Confederate camp of this city. When the marching veterans appeared a national salute of 21 guns was fired by the United States battleship Indiana, which was anchored in the river. Then a large flag was raised on the flagstaff erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution. An address was made by Mayor Strong and Bishop John P. Newman delivered an oration. BOSTON, June 1.—Decoration day of this year was of particular significance on account of the unveiling and dedication of the elaborate memorial structure on Boston Common, erected in honor of Colonel John Robert Gould Shaw, of the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts regiment, and the brave black men who comprised his followers, and who fell with their colonel in the assault upon Fort Wagner, S. C., July 18, 1863.

VICKSBURG, Miss., June 1.—An immense assembly joined in the ceremonies of Decoration day at the national cemetery. In accordance with a custom of years a delegation of Confederate veterans took offerings of flowers to the cemetery and scattered them over the graves.

CHATTANOOGA, June 1.—The graves of the 14,000 Union soldiers buried in the national cemetery at this place were decorated with elaborate ceremonies. Captain J. H. MacGowan of Washington delivered the annual oration. An immense throng of people was present.

SHORT HOUSE SESSION.

It Then Takes a Recess in Honor of the Dead.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—There was a good attendance on the floor of the house and in the galleries notwithstanding the outside attractions. On account of the day the Republican leaders had requested the Democrats to permit a recess until today. They desired to have conference reports on the Indian and sundry civil appropriation bills acted on as soon as possible, but did not wish to work on Memorial day. Some of the Democrats were disposed to concede this, but others declared that the Republicans having adopted a rule for semi-weekly sessions must abide by it.

When the journal was read Mr. Lewis (Dem., Wash.) protested against its approval, saying that there was "no constitutional house that can legally approve the journal and if there was it could not be approved in the manner and form adopted," and gave notice that he merely filed his protest to act upon it in the future as might seem best.

Then Mr. Cannon (Rep., Ill.) asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution to make immediately available funds for the work of the government printing office, which had been provided for in the general deficiency bill. The appropriations for the printing office were exhausted, he said and work there must be stopped to-day unless some provision for it is made.

"Does the gentleman think this a proper way to legislate?" Mr. Richardson (Tenn.) asked.

Mr. Cannon explained that the house had done its duty when it passed the deficiency bill some time ago, and that the fault was the senate's.

The discussion was vetoed by Mr. Simpson (Pop., Kan.), who said he must object to legislation on this day, as he understood it was the plan to take recess in honor of the dead.

Impatient Over the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Secretary Gage has returned to the city from Cincinnati, where he was a guest at the banquet given last Friday by the Commercial club of that city to the visiting clubs from Chicago, Boston and St. Louis. Mr. Gage said that a feeling of impatience seemed to be general among the people at the delay in the passage of a tariff bill. The business of the country was in a condition approaching stagnation and although the public realize that the greatest care is necessary in the construction of a bill of such vast importance, the people were beginning to complain of the time being consumed.

Woman Arrested For Murder.

ATLANTA, June 1.—Mrs. Z. A. Godfrey, 40 years old, handsome and wealthy, daughter of Hon. Benjamin Dwyer, has been arrested for murder. She was indicted on the testimony of her children who swore that six years ago she strangled and buried her daughter's illegitimate child.

Hawaii to Uphold Emigration Laws.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The following Hawaiian advices were brought by the steamer Peru: The Hawaiian government in its reply to Japan on May 24 refused to coincide with the views held by that country on the sending back of 523 Japanese immigrants brought by the Kiniani March 9. Official notice has been given Japan that the emigration laws of Hawaii are to be vigorously upheld.

Heavy Frost In Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, June 1.—Heavy frosts have occurred over the entire state of Wisconsin and considerable damage was probably done to vegetation and fruit. Strawberries in many sections are thought to be almost a total loss by reason of the recent frosts. At Hurley snow fell and the ground is covered to the depth of several inches.

SHOOK THE EARTH.

Many Places Were Visited by Earthquakes.

MANY PEOPLE BADLY FRIGHTENED

It Was Felt Throughout the Atlantic and Southern States—Tall Office Buildings Shaken at Pittsburgh—Very Little Damage Done.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A distinct but slight earthquake was experienced yesterday afternoon throughout the South Atlantic and middle southern states. It is stated at the weather bureau that the direction of the wave was from south to north, but reports received from various sections are conflicting. In some localities, it is stated, the direction of the disturbance was in an easterly to westerly direction, but the records of the instruments here probably are correct. The shock occurred as nearly as has been estimated at 2 o'clock. In some localities the time is given as 1:58 and in others as late as 2:10, and its duration was less than a minute. As far as can be learned Savannah, Ga., was the farthest point south at which the tremor was felt, while the northern boundary of the wave was middle Maryland. West it was felt as far as Knoxville, Tenn. The disturbance seems to have been most severe in the Appalachian region.

PITTSBURGH, June 1.—Pittsburg was visited by an earthquake yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. The shock was so severe that it was noticed in all portions of Western Pennsylvania. In high office buildings tenants rushed panicstricken from the rooms, thinking an explosion had occurred in the building; small objects were knocked from desks and shelves and ink was spilled in several places by the trembling of the earth.

KNOXVILLE, June 1.—Two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt in Knoxville. The shocks were general throughout the city. Several large buildings were badly shaken and two chimneys fell. The movement of the shocks so far as can be ascertained in this city was from west to east. Reports from all over East Tennessee and Southwest Virginia indicate that in places the shock was felt stronger than in Knoxville. At Bristol it continued 30 seconds. It came from the southwest and shook the buildings and people ran into the streets. Several chimneys were thrown to the ground. At Winston, N. C., three distinct shocks were felt, causing wild excitement. Middlesboro, Ky., also felt the shock, as did also Barboursville and Lynchburg, Ky.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 1.—Reports from all over the state report an earthquake shock. Very little damage was done. In a few instances chimneys were shaken down. At Charlotte a very perceptible earthquake shock of 30 seconds duration was felt. Many of the pictures in the art room of the woman's exposition were found hanging out of their correct positions after it was over. Bricks were thrown from chimneys.

LYNCHBURG, Va., June 1.—A shock of earthquake was experienced here. Bricks were shaken from a number of chimneys and furniture and crockery jostled. Considerable alarm was created in some quarters. No damage of consequence was done.

At Danville the shock, which consisted of three distinct vibrations and lasted over one minute, was preceded by a roaring sound resembling that made by a conflagration.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 1.—A severe earthquake was felt all over the city. In many buildings the furniture was moved by the vibrations. The people were panicstricken, and many ran out of the large business houses thinking the buildings were about to tumble down. The vibrations were from north to south and lasted about 15 seconds.

PLAN OF CONVICTS.

To Overpower the Guards and Wreck the Jute Mill.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—"Shoot the first man who breaks out of his cell." That was the order to the guards at San Quentin prison. The prisoners were shrieking like maniacs and rattling and pounding on the iron doors of their cells. The guards were doubled and each carried a shotgun loaded with buckshot. Two men who were released, their terms having expired, have told what the desperate convicts are planning. According to this story it has been agreed among the ringleaders that when they are permitted to return to work in the jute mill they will make a sudden rush, kill Engineer Young if necessary, overpower the guards and wreck the magnificent plant on which nearly $1,000,000 has been spent.

There are 1,364 prisoners within the walls at San Quentin. Over half of them are in open revolt. Many of the others sympathize with the violent ones. Warden Hale says that all the complaints made by the men are trivial. Director Wilkins declares they have no real grievance. Prison Surgeon Lawler says the opium fiends who have been deprived of the drug are at the bottom of the trouble.

ROBBERS' CAVE IN OHIO.

A Discovery That Throws Light on Many Former Burglaries.

JACKSON, June 1.—A remarkable discovery which will serve to throw some light upon an organized band of robbers which, a few years ago, infested the lower part of this county, has been made on the farm of Isaac Blake. George Newcomb, a farmhand in the employ of Mr. Blake, was sinking post-holes preparatory to making a foundation for a corner, when he found that the ground under him was loose as though it had been undermined.

Further investigation showed that directly under the place where Newcomb had been working was a tunnel, whose entrance began at a spot entirely hidden by a dense growth of underbrush, and ran back to a distance of 40 or 50 feet. The roof of the tunnel was supported by pillars, after the manner of a mine entry. Newcomb secured a lantern and, together with Mr. Blake, started to explore the cave, and after entering some 30 feet they found large bundles which were found to contain a great amount of clothing and some silverware.

Four years ago this locality was the scene of numerous thefts and burglaries, and although many persons suspected two brothers who were afterwards sent to the penitentiary on another charge, proof could not be found sufficient to convict them of the burglaries. It is a remarkable coincidence, however, that as soon as the brothers were sent to serve their terms the burglaries ceased. Most of the articles found in the dugout have been identified by parties living in that neighborhood.

Mrs. McKinley Sends Flowers.

CANTON, O., June 1.—A member of the Canton Woman's Relief corps received a box of roses, lilies and other flowers from Mrs. Ida McKinley. They were sent from Washington for the purpose of being used to strew the graves of soldiers at this place. The gracious act of Mrs. McKinley was appreciated by the recipients and the flowers were used as designed.

Fatally Hurt by a Bicyclist.

MARIETTA, O., June 1.—While warming up for a heat at the bicycle races here M. M. Peters, a racer from Wheeling, ran into C. P. Cochran, a prominent and wealthy insurance man of this city, knocking him down, breaking his collar bone and causing a concussion of the brain which will result in his death.

Hurt In a Bicycle Race.

FINDLAY, O., June 1.—During the bicycle tournament at Vantine's park Charles W. Kirkbride, the 20-year-old son of James W. Kirkbride, a wealthy oil operator, was acting as pacemaker when he ran into the bleachers and sustained injuries to his head, which it is thought will result fatally.

The National Republican League to Meet at Detroit.

CINCINNATI, June 1.—President D. D. Woodmansee and secretary M. J. Dowling have issued a call for the tenth annual convention of the National Republican league at Detroit, July 13. Each state and territorial league is entitled to four delegates from each congressional district and six delegates at large.

The business of the convention includes reports from retiring officers, the election of officers, the designation of the time and place for the next national convention, consideration of amendments to the constitution and a discussion of plans for club work and organization.

M'KINLEY FOLLOWS CUSTOM.

The President Confers Degrees on Law School Graduates.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President McKinley has conferred the degrees of about 50 graduates of the senior and post graduate classes of the National University law school at the annual commencement exercises held in this city. The theater was crowded and on the stage were many people of note. President Grant was the first head of the institution and conferred the degrees on its graduates, a custom that was followed by Presidents Hayes, Arthur and Cleveland in his first term. The annual address to the graduates was delivered by Senator Thurston of Nebraska, and a valedictory in behalf of the senior class by Mr. George N. Brown of Wyoming. The graduates represent all sections of the union.

To Appoint New Missionaries.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 1.—In the United Presbyterian general assembly the question of increasing the compensation to women medical missionaries was referred back to be reported to the next general assembly. The report on freedmen's missions was adopted, including instruction to rebuild Elvethan hall, Knoxville college. The report on foreign missions was adopted, carrying with it the appointment of two new missionaries to Egypt and three to India.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

A Party of Excursionists Struck by a Train.

FIVE KILLED AND MANY INJURED.

The Party Consisted of Twenty-One People on a Tally-Ho—The Dead Frightfully Mangled—They Had No Time to Escape the Disaster.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Five young people were killed and a number of others injured in an accident which occurred at Valley Spring, Long Island. A tally-ho, with a party of 21 excursionists from the Greene avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, which started out for a day's outing through Long Island, was struck by a train on the Long Island railroad at the Merrick boulevard crossing and these were instantly killed:

George F. Fashley, Jr., William Gilchrist, Jr., Winslow Lewis, Lester E. Roberts, Miss Dora Burtsch, all of Brooklyn.

The injured were: Emma Bruge, skull fractured; Clara Stuart, skull fractured; Mrs. Anna Andrews, both legs broken; Lawrence Barnes, scalp wound; Walter Wellbrock, both thighs fractured; John Lewis, bruises; Edward McCormick, driver of the coach, badly injured; Earl Barnes, slightly injured; Miss Pashley, back broken; Tillie Horn, severe shock; Edna Bulmer, severe shock; Richard Bates, scalp wound; Bessie Gilson, scalp wound; Miss Debetts, leg broken and head injured; Miss Ray Stillman, badly injured.

Some of the dead were frightfully mangled. The body of Lester W. Roberts was ground to pieces. The body of Miss Burch was also badly mangled. Winslow Lewis had his neck broken, both legs were broken, his head was badly gashed and he was severely cut about the body.

The crash came almost without warning and the occupants of the coach had no time to make any effort to escape.

Before the most of them knew of the impending danger, the train was upon them, the coach was upset and the engine pushing it along the rails, the dead and injured being cut and mangled beneath it.

The train that struck the tally-ho was bound east from Mineola. It was not running fast when the accident happened, and accounts differ as to whether the bell was being rung. It is claimed by some that it was, and that the merry party on the coach was making so much noise that the driver could not hear the bell.

The double team as the tally-ho had crossed the track and had the front wheels of the coach upon the rails when the pilot of the engine was seen by the driver. He gave the horses a cut with the whip, but it was too late and a moment later the crash came. The heavy engine, driven forward by the momentum, raised the coach and its load of passengers from the ground and hurled it forward. As the engine came into sight the women of the party uttered screams which were ended by the crash and then followed by screams of agony. When the engine struck the coach the occupants were in all positions, as they had started to jump to their feet upon realizing their danger. Some had gained their feet while others had made an effort to reach the side steps. Others were so frightened to move, had clutched the seats of the side rail and waited for the crash.

TO SEE HIM HANGED.

The Parents of Durrant Will Witness the Execution.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., June 1.—Theodore Durrant has made the declaration that if he must meet his fate on the gallows he will die like a man. The mere suggestion of suicide is repulsive to him he says. He also declares that he will die in the presence of his parents, who will insist on attending the execution as his invited guests.

The elder Durrant says his wife is a woman of determination and she will press her legal rights to the limit. Under the law Warden Hale cannot deny her admission if she presents at the prison an invitation of her son requesting her presence at the hanging. The law gives him the right to invite five relatives.

AGAINST THE STATE.

A Decision Which May Render the Dispensary Law Void.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 1.—Judge Simonton of the United States circuit court has filed a decision in the case of the Vandercook county, against the state of South Carolina restraining the state from preventing the sale of liquor brought into the state. The decision if sustained on appeal, it is claimed, will have the effect of rendering nugatory the state dispensary law.

Under the decision of Judge Simonton any person may import and sell liquor in original packages. The decision is based on the interstate commerce law, the court holding that the right of importation comprehends the right of sale.

The prisoners were shrieking like maniacs and rattling and pounding on the iron doors of their cells. The guards were doubled and each carried a shotgun loaded with buckshot. Two men who were released, their terms having expired, have told what the desperate convicts are planning. According to this story it has been agreed among the ringleaders that when they are permitted to return to work in the jute mill they will make a sudden rush, kill Engineer Young if necessary, overpower the guards and wreck the magnificent plant on which nearly $1,000,000 has been spent.

There are 1,364 prisoners within the walls at San Quentin. Over half of them are in open revolt. Many of the others sympathize with the violent ones. Warden Hale says that all the complaints made by the men are trivial. Director Wilkins declares they have no real grievance. Prison Surgeon Lawler says the opium fiends who have been deprived of the drug are at the bottom of the trouble.

ROBBERS' CAVE IN OHIO.

A Discovery That Throws Light on Many Former Burglaries.

JACKSON, June 1.—A remarkable discovery which will serve to throw some light upon an organized band of robbers which, a few years ago, infested the lower part of this county, has been made on the farm of Isaac Blake, George Newcomb, a farmhand in the employ of Mr. Blake, was sinking post-holes preparatory to making a foundation for a corner, when he found that the ground under him was loose as though it had been undermined.

Further investigation showed that directly under the place where Newcomb had been working was a tunnel, whose entrance began at a spot entirely hidden by a dense growth of underbrush, and ran back to a distance of 40 or 50 feet. The roof of the tunnel was supported by pillars, after the manner of a mine entry. Newcomb secured a lantern and, together with Mr. Blake, started to explore the cave, and after entering some 30 feet they found large bundles which were found to contain a great amount of clothing and some silverware.

Four years ago this locality was the scene of numerous thefts and burglaries, and although many persons suspected two brothers who were afterwards sent to the penitentiary on another charge, proof could not be found sufficient to convict them of the burglaries. It is a remarkable coincidence, however, that as soon as the brothers were sent to serve their terms the burglaries ceased. Most of the articles found in the dugout have been identified by parties living in that neighborhood.

Mrs. McKinley Sends Flowers.

CANTON, O., June 1.—A member of the Canton Woman's Relief corps received a box of roses, lilies and other flowers from Mrs. Ida McKinley. They were sent from Washington for the purpose of being used to strew the graves of soldiers at this place. The gracious act of Mrs. McKinley was appreciated by the recipients and the flowers were used as designed.

Fatally Hurt by a Bicyclist.

MARIETTA, O., June 1.—While warming up for a heat at the bicycle races here M. M. Peters, a racer from Wheeling, ran into C. P. Cochran, a prominent and wealthy insurance man of this city, knocking him down, breaking his collar bone and causing a concussion of the brain which will result in his death.

Hurt In a Bicycle Race.

FINDLAY, O., June 1.—During the bicycle tournament at Vantine's park Charles W. Kirkbride, the 20-year-old son of James W. Kirkbride, a wealthy oil operator, was acting as pacemaker when he ran into the bleachers and sustained injuries to his head, which it is thought will result fatally.

A CALL ISSUED.

The National Republican League to Meet at Detroit.

CINCINNATI, June 1.—President D. D. Woodmansee and secretary M. J. Downing have issued a call for the tenth annual convention of the National Republican league at Detroit, July 13. Each state and territorial league is entitled to four delegates from each congressional district and six delegates at large.

The business of the convention includes reports from retiring officers, the election of officers, the designation of the time and place for the next national convention, consideration of amendments to the constitution and a discussion of plans for club work and organization.

This convention will be the tenth anniversary of the formation of the National Republican league and it will be celebrated by a reception in honor of the ex-presidents of the league, all of whom will be in attendance. The call says:

M'KINLEY FOLLOWS CUSTOM.

The President Confers Degrees on Law School Graduates.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President McKinley has conferred the degrees of about 50 graduates of the senior and post graduate classes of the National University law school at the annual commencement exercises held in this city. The theater was crowded and on the stage were many people of note. President Grant was the first head of the institution and conferred the degrees on its graduates, a custom that was followed by Presidents Hayes, Arthur and Cleveland in his first term.

The annual address to the graduates was delivered by Senator Thurston of Nebraska, and a valedictory in behalf of the senior class by Mr. George N. Brown of Wyoming. The graduates represent all sections of the union.

To Appoint New Missionaries.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 1.—In the United Presbyterian general assembly the question of increasing the compensation to women medical missionaries was referred back to be reported to the next general assembly. The report on freedmen's missions was adopted, including instruction to rebuild Elnathan hall, Knoxville college. The report on foreign missions was adopted, carrying with it the appointment of two new missionaries to Egypt and three to India.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

A Party of Excursionists Struck by a Train.

FIVE KILLED AND MANY INJURED.

The Party Consisted of Twenty-One People on a Tally-Ho—The Dead Frightfully Mangled—They Had No Time to Escape the Disaster.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Five young people were killed and a number of others injured in an accident which occurred at Valley Spring, Long Island. A tally-ho, with a party of 21 excursionists from the Greene avenue Baptist church, Brooklyn, which started out for a day's outing through Long Island, was struck by a train on the Long Island railroad at the Merrick boulevard crossing and these were instantly killed:

George F. Fashley, Jr., William Gilchrist, Jr., Winslow Lewis, Lester E. Roberts, Miss Dora Burtch, all of Brooklyn.

The injured were: Emma Bruge, skull fractured; Clara Stuart, skull fractured; Mrs. Anna Andrews, both legs broken; Lawrence Barnes, scalp wound; Walter Wellbrock, both thighs fractured; John Lewis, bruises; Edward McCormick, driver of the coach, badly injured; Earl Barnes, slightly injured; Miss Pashley, back broken; Tillie Horn, severe shock; Edna Bulmer, severe shock; Richard Bates, scalp wound; Bessie Gilson, scalp wound; Miss Debetts, leg broken and head injured; Miss Ray Scillman, badly injured.

Some of the dead were frightfully mangled. The body of Lester W. Roberts was ground to pieces. The body of Miss Burch was also badly mangled. Winslow Lewis had his neck broken, both legs were broken, his head was badly gashed and he was severely cut about the body.

The crash came almost without warning and the occupants of the coach had no time to make any effort to escape.

Before the most of them knew of the impending danger, the train was upon them, the coach was upset and the engine pushing it along the rails, the dead and injured being cut and mangled beneath it.

The train that struck the tally-ho was bound east from Mineola. It was not running fast when the accident happened, and accounts differ as to whether the bell was being rung. It is claimed by some that it was, and that the merry party on the coach was making so much noise that the driver could not hear the bell.

The double track on the tally-ho had crossed the track and had the front wheels of the coach upon the rails when the pilot of the engine was seen by the driver. He gave the horses a cut with the whip, but it was too late and a moment later the crash came. The heavy engine, driven forward by the momentum, raised the coach and its load of passengers from the ground and hurled it forward. As the engine came into sight the women of the party uttered screams which were ended by the crash and then followed by screams of agony. When the engine struck the coach the occupants were in all positions, as they had started to jump to their feet upon realizing their danger. Some had gained their feet while others had made an effort to reach the side steps. Others were so frightened to move, had clutched the seats of the side rail and waited for the crash.

TO SEE HIM HANGED.

The Parents of Durrant Will Witness the Execution.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., June 1.—Theodore Durrant has made the declaration that if he must meet his fate on the gallows he will die like a man. The mere suggestion of suicide is repulsive to him he says. He also declares that he will die in the presence of his parents, who will insist on attending the execution as his invited guests.

The elder Durrant says his wife is a woman of determination and she will press her legal rights to the limit. Under the law Warden Hale cannot deny her admission if she presents at the prison an invitation of her son requesting her presence at the hanging. The law gives him the right to invite five relatives.

AGAINST THE STATE.

A Decision Which May Render the Dispensary Law Void.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 1.—Judge Simonton of the United States circuit court has filed a decision in the case of the Vandercook county, restraining the state of South Carolina, restraining the state from preventing the sale of liquor brought into the state. The decision if sustained on appeal, it is claimed, will have the effect of rendering nugatory the state dispensary law.

Under the decision of Judge Simonton any person may import and sell liquor in original packages. The decision is based on the interstate commerce law, the court holding that the right of importation comprehends the right of sale.

HE HAD A CLOSE CALL

J. Otto Urshlere Was Shot
In the Head.

TWO STORIES OF THE INCIDENT

One Said That He Had Attempted to End
His Existence In Order to Get Away
From the Cigarette Habit, but He Claims It Was an Accident.

The report of a revolver followed by the scream of a woman aroused Third street at 8:30 yesterday morning, and caused the crowd to wonder if another murder had been added to the story of crime in this city.

Less than a month ago, Otto Urshlere and his wife, who is a clairvoyant, came to the city and took up their abode at 164 Third street. At the time given Urshlere walked from his room on the second floor to the landing, and the next moment his wife heard the shot. Running into the hall she caught him as he was about to fall and he was taken to his room. Doctor Toot was called, and found a flesh wound in the back of the man's head. It was not at all severe, and the man was in no danger. A reporter called at the house, and learned that Urshlere had shot himself because he had decided that death was preferable to the cigarette habit, and to the last he was addicted. Chief Johnson also visited the house soon after the shooting, and took charge of the revolver. The report was current in the streets that Urshlere had attempted to take his life.

In the afternoon the injured man called at the NEWS REVIEW, and said he was cleaning his revolver when it was accidentally discharged. He said he had no intention of shooting himself, and the matter was an accident, pure and simple.

A YOUNG BLACKGUARD.

He Should Have Been Incarcerated In the Cooler.

On Saturday night last, between the hours of six and seven o'clock, four young men approached the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets, on Market, two of the number engaged in a very heated argument. Entering the alleyway, one of the fellows threw off his coat and dared the other to combat, using at the same time, the most foul, filthy and profane expressions, in the sight and hearing of ladies and gentlemen who were passing by. His antagonist was more self contained and far more gentlemanly, as he refused to do battle in such a public place, telling his angry opponent that he was making a fool of himself and advising him to put on his coat and postpone the contemplated fight until a more fitting place could be reached, when he could have all the fun he desired in the line of pugilism. The first mentioned young tough finally put on his coat, and the quartet then wended their way up Market street, the foul mouthed fellow of the number still using language unfit for publication. One gentleman present said: "I'm sorry I can't find a policeman to take charge of that young blackguard. I wish I could name him, and I'd enter a charge of disorderly conduct against him, as it is high time that such characters should be taught that they cannot commit such outrages with impunity."

BAD, VERY BAD.

We Refer to the Conduct of Excursionists on Sunday.

There appears to be no law capable of controlling bad conduct when indulged in upon steamers or excursion boats upon the Ohio river. But the municipality of East Liverpool has the power, under the law, to control such excursionists after they land in this city, and that power should have been enforced on Sunday last, as the conduct of these unwelcome visitors, male and female, was simply infamous and a disgrace to this city. Women acted in the most unseemly manner upon our main thoroughfares, while drunken and disorderly men used language which should have caused devils to hide their heads for very shame. Such actions and conduct must cease in East Liverpool, or public sentiment will cause an upheaval which will not soon be forgotten. If the present force of police is unable to control the disorderly element upon such occasions, then should our councilmen take measures looking to just such emergencies.

Attending a Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fairmount home board is being held today at Alliance. Hon. David Boyce and Captain Palmer are in attendance.

AN OLD ENGLISH LETTER.

Lady Montrose of Two Hundred Years Ago
Was a Poor Speller.

There is bad spelling and there is bad spelling. Artemus Ward and Josh Billings did some of it professionally, and many school children and some grown men and women do some of it even unto this day. But neither of these distinguished persons and no school child or grown up man or woman, even in his or her wildest dream of revenge against Webster et al., ever came within a mile of the spelling of a noble Scotch lady of 200 years ago.

She was personally Christian Leslie, daughter of the Duke of Rothes, and wife of the third Marquis of Montrose, and later of Sir John Bruce of Kinross. According to custom, having been a peeress she retained her peerage title. Thus it came about that Sir John Bruce lived with the Countess of Montrose with all propriety. But this was what she wrote:

MADAM—I tender you a thousand thanks for your play, which is very good, and I have returned it with the bearer, and if your ladyships have either enay mor good playes or novells which you have read, and will be pleased to loan them to me, I shall be verie fathefoull in restorance, and teke it a great faver, for they are verie deverting in the country. Your lord did me the honour to dayn hear yesterday, and was verie well hertely wished your ladyship hed come alonge, for itt wold hev bin bott a devertisement in this good wather, and yow wold have bin verie welcome to, dear madam, your ladyships most humble servant,
C. MONTROSE.

For the right honorable the Countess of Arandall, at hir logeng in Netherayes, Waynd, Edinburgh.

If readers who can't translate this will try temporarily to forget all they ever knew of spelling, and then will practice Lady Montrose's letter again, it is possible that they may learn what her ladyship wanted to say to Lady Annandale. What the latter said and wrote it is perhaps as well we do not know.—Philadelphia Times.

THE SLIDING POLE.

Very Handy to Use Going Down, but the
Stairs Still Used Going Up.

Firemen use the sliding poles in the engine houses when descending from the dormitory floors to the street floor about their ordinary affairs just as they do when hustling down for a fire. It is the quickest and easiest way to go, and naturally they go that way always. To a man not a fireman, however, and so unaccustomed to it, the commonplace use of the sliding pole seems at first strange. He has seen it usually, perhaps only, from below, and the use of it is associated in his mind with the sound of the gong, the pounding of the horses' hoofs, the snapping of harness and the general bustle of preparation. To see the firemen come dropping down the sliding poles into this scene of activity seems all right. It seems like a part of the general scheme. But if one who has been accustomed only to seeing them come down the poles in this way should happen at a time of quiet in the house to be on an upper floor, and instead of seeing firemen shoot into view should see one suddenly and silently disappear, that sight probably would at first be surprising to him.

At first it seems strange to see any man, fireman or not, slide down a pole to start for his dinner, for instance, but that is what the fireman does, and it is just the same if he is going below for any duty in the house. He goes down the pole habitually because that is the simplest and easiest way to go. But he doesn't go back that way. Easy as it is to slide down the pole, it would be mighty hard work to shin up it. When the fireman goes up, then, like everybody else he climbs the stairs.—New York Sun.

Certain American Editions.

The American editions of many English authors were of prime importance in the careers of the writers, and to ignore them is to ignore most potent factors in their lives. The publication of the "Yellowplush Correspondence" in Philadelphia was followed by the "Comic Tales and Sketches," and the success of the American book was the influence that induced the London publisher to assume the risk. In the same way the miscellanies collected from original sources and published in 12 volumes by the Appletons in New York in 1852 and 1853 induced the publication of the miscellanies in London in 1855 to 1857. Thackeray carried home a set of these Appleton volumes to aid him in selecting the papers for the London issue, and yet, would the bibliographer tell us that the London edition of 1855-7 was the "first," and that the New York edition exists not at all?—Book Buyer.

Classicism and Romanticism in Music.

Classical composers are those of the first rank who have developed music to the highest pitch of perfection on its formal side, and in obedience to generally accepted laws, preferring aesthetic beauty, pure and simple, over emotional content, refusing to sacrifice form to characteristic expression. Romantic composers are those who have sought their ideals in other regions and striven to give expression to them, irrespective of the restrictions and limitations of form and the conventions of law—composers with whom, in brief, content outweighs manner.—"How to Listen to Music," Krehbiel.

In Paris the houses are very high and the streets narrow. In London the houses are low and the streets broad.

New Horses.

NOBODY HEEDS THEM.

Public Indifferent to Signs Put Up For Its Convenience.

An enterprising advertiser once headed a long printed description of his wars with the line, "Do not read this," and the avidity with which every line was read stimulated other advertisers to resort to the same trick, until it became old and worthless. Signs in public places are treated by the majority of people just the same as the catch line of years ago. Every horse car and every car on the elevated system carries a sign warning passengers that they must not stand on the platforms, but in the busy hours one rarely sees a car which does not carry all the people it can hold on the platform, and no conductor has ever made any effort to enforce the rule. Every car on the Madison avenue line has signs painted on the doors which give orders to keep the front door closed, but nobody thinks of paying any attention to the sign, and it seems to those people who travel on that line that the front door is used more on the Madison avenue line than on any other.

In the waiting rooms of the various railway stations the signs by which it is made known which parts of the place are for women might as well be removed because no one seems to take the least notice of them, and the benches in the waiting shed of the Grand Central station, over which a sign is posted, "Reserved For Women," would be occupied by men continually if the employees did not call attention to the sign.

At most places where people buy tickets, in banks where there are crowds of depositors or people who wish to draw funds from the institution, there are signs showing on which side the line forms, and still there is never a day in any of the larger of these places when some people do not make desperate efforts to form a line all by themselves and work against the one which had been formed before they came. They are of the same class who refuse to keep to the right, and when they come through a swing door on the left side and receive a bump hardly appreciate the sermon contained in the few words which the other man utters: "Serves you right! Keep to the right!"

But there is one sign in public places the disregard for which has aroused much comment. It is in regard to spitting, and the evil that has been wrought by the practice has been so thoroughly discussed by scientific men that hundreds of people have determined that they would help to enforce the rules of the health department and make at least one sign more than a dead letter.—New York Tribune.

Franklin's Desk.

One of the most valuable and interesting pieces of furniture in Philadelphia is owned by Dr. Roland G. Curtin and has a place of honor in his office, at 22 South Eighteenth street. It is Benjamin Franklin's desk, the very one he used for 20 or more years, and at which he did most of his writing, and in which he kept most of his papers.

It is big and broad, with a flat top and two tiers of ample English oak drawers and two drawers in the middle. There are two fronts, making both sides alike. The wood is the finest solid mahogany, the brasswork is handmade and the desk was evidently intended to last for generations. A great stack of letters and old newspaper clippings tell the story of the desk.

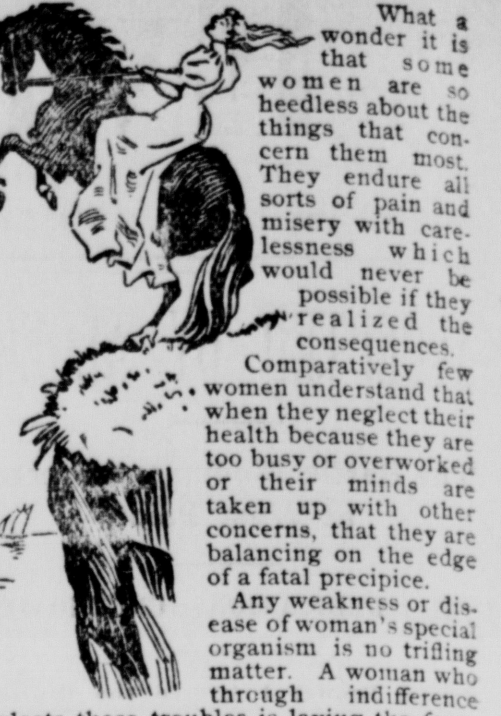

After the death of Dr. Franklin it came into the possession of the well known Philadelphia exchange brokers. One letter is very curious. It is from Rev. Edwin Town, to whose uncle it was bequeathed by Mr. Whelen. That letter is to William Bradford, a member of councils in 1857, after the desk was placed in Independence hall and attracted great attention. In it, after exploding the theory that Dr. Franklin and Mr. Whelen had private transactions which led to the possession of the desk, Mr. Town says: "I shall continue to believe, as I have for the last 40 years, that the desk was absolutely the property of Dr. Franklin and that Mr. Whelen, Sr., came into possession of it either before the doctor's death or soon after, when a part of his effects were disposed of, including the old desk, which Joseph Carr, formerly of Bartram's garden, the errand boy of Dr. Franklin at the time of his death (1790), is positive he remembers as occupying a place in the chamber on the right of the entrance hall of the doctor's mansion, which stood at that day on the ground now occupied by Franklin place."

Dr. Curtin got the desk from one of the present members of the Town family. It has been estimated that it may be 150 years old.—Philadelphia Times.

The First Blankets.

In the reign of Edward III there were at Bristol three brothers who were eminent clothiers and woolen weavers, and whose family name was Blanket. They were the first persons who manufactured that comfortable material, which has ever since been called by their name and which was then used for peasants' clothing.

John Bunyan fought on the Roundhead side during the civil war in England. This has been definitely settled by the discovery of his name in several places on the muster rolls of the parliamentary garrison of Newport Pagnell. Some people, it seems, thought John fought for King Charles.

Some Items of Interest Furnished
Our Representative by a Well-

Items pertaining to the domestic life of people we don't know, who live in foreign parts, are as a rule dry and uninteresting to our readers. It is only when such items touch upon some matter or individual of which the reader has some knowledge that attention is centered upon them, and in the present instance a perusal of what follows will be found not only interesting, but valuable. Remember always, keep it in mind, don't lose sight of the fact that one line of local evidence about any article is worth a column of foreign testimony. Read what this resident says about Doan's Kidney Pills. Mrs. Wm. James, who lives at 283 Third street, says: "I have been troubled off and on for the past eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys, a dull aching pain across my loins, up under my shoulder blades, and rheumatic pain in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes in the weather, and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing frequent fluttering of the heart and a shortness of breath. I have generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy, and got relief almost at once. The symptoms all left, and I have not felt any since. I feel much better and stronger generally."

Health is Wealth.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50. By mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for United States.

There appears to be no law capable of controlling bad conduct when indulged in upon steamers or excursion boats upon the Ohio river. But the municipality of East Liverpool has the power, under the law, to control such excursionists after they land in this city, and that power should have been enforced on Sunday last, as the conduct of these unwelcome visitors, male and female, was simply infamous and a disgrace to this city. Women acted in the most unseemly manner upon our main thoroughfares, while drunken and disorderly men used language which should have caused devils to hide their heads for very shame. Such actions and conduct must cease in East Liverpool, or public sentiment will cause an upheaval which will not soon be forgotten. If the present force of police is unable to control the disorderly element upon such occasions, then should our councilmen take measures looking to just such emergencies.

Attending a Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fairmount home board is being held today at Alliance. Hon. David Boyce and Captain Palmer are in attendance.

AN OLD ENGLISH LETTER.

Lady Montrose of Two Hundred Years Ago
Was a Poor Speller.

There is bad spelling and there is bad spelling. Artemus Ward and Josh Billings did some of it professionally, and many school children and some grown men and women do some of it even unto this day. But neither of these distinguished persons and no school child or grown up man or woman, even in his or her wildest dream of revenge against Webster et al., ever came within a mile of the spelling of a noble Scotch lady of 200 years ago.

She was personally Christian Leslie, daughter of the Duke of Rothes, and wife of the third Marquis of Montrose, and later of Sir John Bruce of Kinross. According to custom, having been a peeress she retained her peerage title. Thus it came about that Sir John Bruce lived with the Countess of Montrose with all propriety. But this was what she wrote:

KINGROSE, July 4, 1603.

MADAM—I tender yow a thousand thanks for your play, which is very good, and I have returned it with the bearer, and if your ladyships have either any more good plays or novels which you have read, and will be pleased to loan them to me, I shall be very fathouell in restorance, and teke it a great favor, for they are very deverting in the country. Your lord did me the honour to dayn hear yesterday, and was very well hertely wished your ladyship had come along, for it wold have bin bott a devertisement in this good wather, and yow wold have bin vere wellicome to, dear madam, your ladyships most humble servant,
C. MONTROSE.

For the right honorable the Countess of Arandell, at hir logeng in Netherayes, Waynd, Edinburgh.

If readers who can't translate this will try temporarily to forget all they ever knew of spelling, and then will practice Lady Montrose's letter again, it is possible that they may learn what her ladyship wanted to say to Lady Annandale. What the latter said and wrote it is perhaps as well we do not know.—Philadelphia Times.

THE SLIDING POLE.

Very Handy to Use Going Down, but the
Stairs Still Used Going Up.

Firemen use the sliding poles in the engine houses when descending from the dormitory floors to the street floor about their ordinary affairs just as they do when hustling down for a fire. It is the quickest and easiest way to go, and naturally they go that way always. To a man not a fireman, however, and so unaccustomed to it, the commonplace use of the sliding pole seems at first strange. He has seen it usually, perhaps only, from below, and the use of it is associated in his mind with the sound of the gong, the pounding of the horses' hoofs, the snapping of harness and the general bustle of preparation. To see the firemen come dropping down the sliding poles into this scene of activity seems all right. It seems like a part of the general scheme. But if one who has been accustomed only to seeing them come down the poles in this way should happen at a time of quiet in the house to be on an upper floor, and instead of seeing firemen shoot into view should see one suddenly and silently disappear, that sight probably would at first be surprising to him.

At first it seems strange to see any man, fireman or not, slide down a pole to start for his dinner, for instance, but that is what the fireman does, and it is just the same if he is going below for any duty in the house. He goes down the pole habitually because that is the simplest and easiest way to go. But he doesn't go back that way. Easy as it is to slide down the pole, it would be mighty hard work to shin up it. When the fireman goes up, then, like everybody else he climbs the stairs.—New York Sun.

Certain American Editions.

The American editions of many English authors were of prime importance in the careers of the writers, and to ignore them is to ignore most potent factors in their lives. The publication of the "Yellowplush Correspondence" in Philadelphia was followed by the "Comic Tales and Sketches," and the success of the American book was the influence that induced the London publisher to assume the risk. In the same way the miscellanies collected from original sources and published in 12 volumes by the Appletons in New York in 1852 and 1853 induced the publication of the miscellanies in London in 1855 to 1857. Thackeray carried home a set of these Appleton volumes to aid him in selecting the papers for the London issue, and yet, would the bibliographer tell us that the London edition of 1855-7 was the "first," and that the New York edition exists not at all?—Book Buyer.

Classicism and Romanticism in Music.

Classical composers are those of the first rank who have developed music to the highest pitch of perfection on its formal side, and, in obedience to generally accepted laws, preferring aesthetic beauty, pure and simple, over emotional content, refusing to sacrifice form to characteristic expression. Romantic composers are those who have sought their ideals in other regions and striven to give expression to them, irrespective of the restrictions and limitations of form and the conventions of law—composers with whom, in brief, content outweighs manner.—"How to Listen to Music," Krehbiel.

In Paris the houses are very high and the streets narrow. In London the houses are low and the streets broad.

A Pretty Resort.

A sojourn at Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous rowboats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 20 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A., Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol. C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind. *

NOBODY NEEDS THEM.

Public Indifferent to Signs Put Up For Its Convenience.

An enterprising advertiser once headed a long printed description of his wars with the line, "Do not read this," and the avidity with which every line was read stimulated other advertisers to resort to the same trick, until it became old and worthless. Signs in public places are treated by the majority of people just the same as the catch line of years ago. Every horse car and every car on the elevated system carries a sign warning passengers that they must not stand on the platforms, but in the busy hours one rarely sees a car which does not carry all the people it can hold on the platform, and no conductor has ever made any effort to enforce the rule. Every car on the Madison avenue line has signs painted on the doors which give orders to keep the front door closed, but nobody thinks of paying any attention to the sign, and it seems to those people who travel on that line that the front door is used more on the Madison avenue line than on any other.

In the waiting rooms of the various railway stations the signs by which it is made known which parts of the place are for women might as well be removed because no one seems to take the least notice of them, and the benches in the waiting shed of the Grand Central station, over which a sign is posted, "Reserved For Women," would be occupied by men continually if the employees did not call attention to the sign.

At most places where people buy tickets, in banks where there are crowds of depositors or people who wish to draw funds from the institution, there are signs showing on which side the line forms, and still there is never a day in any of the larger of these places when some people do not make desperate efforts to form a line all by themselves and work against the one which had been formed before they came. They are of the same class who refuse to keep to the right, and when they come through a swing door on the left side and receive a bump hardly appreciate the sermon contained in the few words which the other man utters: "Serves you right! Keep to the right!"

But there is one sign in public places the disregard for which has aroused much comment. It is in regard to spitting, and the evil that has been wrought by the practice has been so thoroughly discussed by scientific men that hundreds of people have determined that they would help to enforce the rules of the health department and make at least one sign more than a dead letter.—New York Tribune.

Franklin's Desk.

One of the most valuable and interesting pieces of furniture in Philadelphia is owned by Dr. Roland G. Curtin and has a place of honor in his office, at 22 South Eighteenth street. It is Benjamin Franklin's desk, the very one he used for 20 or more years, and at which he did most of his writing, and in which he kept most of his papers.

It is big and broad, with a flat top and two tiers of ample English oak drawers and two drawers in the middle. There are two fronts, making both sides alike. The wood is the finest solid mahogany, the brasswork is handmade and the desk was evidently intended to last for generations. A great stack of letters and old newspaper clippings tell the story of the desk.

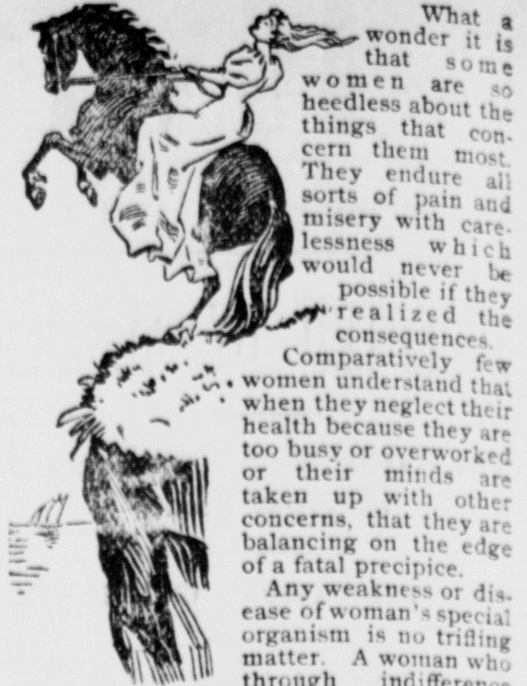

After the death of Dr. Franklin it came into the possession of the well known Philadelphia exchange brokers. One letter is very curious. It is from Rev. Edwin Town, to whose uncle it was bequeathed by Mr. Whelen. That letter is to William Bradford, a member of councils in 1857, after the desk was placed in Independence hall and attracted great attention. In it, after exploding the theory that Dr. Franklin and Mr. Whelen had private transactions which led to the possession of the desk, Mr. Town says: "I shall continue to believe, as I have for the last 40 years, that the desk was absolutely the property of Dr. Franklin and that Mr. Whelen, Sr., came into possession of it either before the doctor's death or soon after, when a part of his effects were disposed of, including the old desk, which Joseph Carr, formerly of Bartram's garden, the errand boy of Dr. Franklin at the time of his death (1790), is positive he remembers as occupying a place in the chamber on the right of the entrance hall of the doctor's mansion, which stood at that day on the ground now occupied by Franklin place."

Dr. Curtin got the desk from one of the present members of the Town family. It has been estimated that it may be 150 years old.—Philadelphia Times.

The First Blankets.

In the reign of Edward III there were at Bristol three brothers who were eminent clothiers and woolen weavers, and whose family name was Blanket. They were the first persons who manufactured that comfortable material, which has ever since been called by their name and which was then used for peasants' clothing.

John Bunyan fought on the Roundhead side during the civil war in England. This has been definitely settled by the discovery of his name in several places on the muster rolls of the parliamentary garrison of Newport Pagnell. Some people, it seems, thought John fought for King Charles.

What a wonder it is that some women are so heedless about the things that concern them most. They endure all sorts of pain and misery with carelessness which would never be possible if they realized the consequences.

Comparatively few women understand that when they neglect their health because they are too busy or overworked or their minds are taken up with other concerns, that they are balancing on the edge of a fatal precipice. Any weakness or disease of woman's special organism is no trifling matter. A woman who through indifference neglects these troubles is laying the foundation for life-long wretchedness.

A modest woman naturally recoils from the mortifying ordeal of examinations and local treatment which doctors insist upon. But there is no necessity for any such repugnant alternative. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures these delicate complaints positively and completely. It is a medicine devised for this particular purpose by one of the most eminent of living specialists in woman's diseases. Dr. Pierce has been for nearly 30 years chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. During this time he has received fully ninety thousand letters from women who have been cured by the "Favorite Prescription." Some of these letters are printed by permission in one chapter of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It contains advice and suggestions for self-treatment which every woman ought to read. More than half a million copies have been sold at $1.50 each. An absolutely free edition in paper covers will be sent for a limited time to anyone sending 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. For a handsome cloth-bound copy send 31 stamps.

Some Items of Interest Furnished
Our Representative by a Well-Known Lady.

Items pertaining to the domestic life of people we don't know, who live in foreign parts, are as a rule dry and uninteresting to our readers. It is only when such items touch upon some matter or individual of which the reader has some knowledge that attention is centered upon them, and in the present instance a perusal of what follows will be found not only interesting, but valuable. Remember always, keep it in mind, don't lose sight of the fact that one line of local evidence about any article is worth a column of foreign testimony. Read what this resident says about Doan's Kidney Pills. Mrs. Wm. James, who lives at 283 Third street, says: "I have been troubled off and on for the past eight years with a weakness of the back and kidneys, a dull aching pain across my loins, up under my shoulder blades, and rheumatic pain in my right shoulder. I was very susceptible to changes in the weather, and was so bad at times that I could scarcely stand and support my own weight. The trouble affected my nervous system, causing frequent fluttering of the heart and a shortness of breath. I have generally resorted to porous plasters, but the relief was only temporary. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy, and got relief almost at once. The symptoms all left, and I have not felt any since. I feel much better and stronger generally."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50. By mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for United States.

HONORED THE SOLDIERS

Impressive Services at the Old Cemetery.

DOCTOR HASTINGS' ADDRESS

The Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and School Children Marched Through the streets, and Paid Tribute to the Dead Heroes of Another Generation.

It was an ideal Memorial day. The weather was perfect, and not a hitch came to mar the excellent arrangements of the Grand Army.

It was 1:30 o'clock when the Grand Army gathered at Fourth and Washington streets; and the school children in charge of their teachers and Superintendent Sanor were marshalled at Central building. The parade formed in this order:

Squad of Police.
Drum Corps.
Sons of Veterans.
Grand Army.
School Children.

The column moved to Broadway, to Fifth, to the cemetery. There the ceremonies were those of other years, old it is true, but as beautiful and impressive yesterday as upon the first Memorial day. The Grand Army opened ranks at the mound, and the school children passed through, dropping flowers or a tiny flag as they passed. A circle was formed, and with bared heads the veterans heard Commander A. H. McCoy pass through the ritual. W. H. Surles prayed, and the salute was fired, while the stirring notes of "America," sung by all the people there, sounded through the old cemetery. That ended the program, but it was late before all the people had left the cemetery.

At 8 o'clock the Grand Army assembled in their hall and marched to the First U. P. church, where Rev. Wm. Hastings, D. D., of Toronto, delivered the address. The church was well filled, and the address was interesting. Doctor Hastings said in part:

"We, the living, can only show appreciation of what these dead comrades did by decorating their graves. I feel assured the dead will some day know what we did for them. Their memory will never be forgotten. Not a slave in this great country clanked his chains behind him when our soldiers marched through Washington in 1865. Let us teach our children that their fathers' war was a war that will live as long as the nations stand. Since God is good, and God is just, there is not a man in the world who will escape the penalty of God. We cannot forget the tears and sorrows of the past, and we cannot forget the deeds. You have visited this day the city of the dead, and garlanded the graves with flowers. Have you failed to recall the brave action of the men who lie there? I don't think you have. The sentence of the dead is for no man. The grave is silent. From it comes no voice of anguish. So let it be with us. Let the dead bury their dead, our duty is to care for the living. All our soldiers were brave, fearless Americans, men, every one of them. America is the best land in the world. God help us to keep it so. America first, last and forever!"

A QUICK TURN

Saved a Pair of Drunks From Being Run Down.

Two men, under the influence of liquor, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon. They were driving down Broadway at a rapid rate when a fast freight crossed the street. The horse turned, and the buggy struck the fire plug in front of the National House throwing out the occupants. They were not hurt.

Only an Accident.

Sunday afternoon as a number of the teachers at the West End chapel were walking in Jethro street some small boys threw a basket of rotten eggs over the hill. The parties escaped except a lady teacher, who had her dress liberally sprinkled with stale eggs. The accident was due to carelessness, and was not intentional.

We Won One.

The chicken fight Saturday at Line Island attracted a large crowd. Sports from Pittsburg, New Brighton and Beaver Falls were on hand, but only eight battles were fought. Seven were won by New Brighton parties while this city carried off the other.

NO BATTLE FOUGHT.

Indians Don't Want to Fight Soldiers, But Cowboys.

HELENA, Mont., June 1.—Reports of the killing of several men by the Cheyenne Indians at Home Deer agency are not verified. It is not believed that any one was killed except a sheep herder named Hoover, whose murder some time ago caused the excitement. Settlers and cowboys determined to avenge his death and give the Cheyennes an object lesson to deter them from similar acts in the future. They sent all the women and children to places of safety, armed themselves and congregated near the agency and demanded the surrender of the Indians accused of murdering Hoover. The Indians armed themselves and made the threatening demonstration against the whites, but no battle has been fought nor massacres begun so far as is known. Six companies of United States troops are at the agency. The Indians declare that they do not want to fight the soldiers, but are anxious to have a brush with the white settlers and cowboys.

There is a conflict of authority between Indian Agent Captain Stouch and the sheriff of Custer county. The sheriff's deputies were ordered off the reservation by the agents. They returned to Miles City and got a warrant for the arrest of the agent for interfering with the officers and started back to arrest him. Lane Deer is 60 miles from a telegraph office and the result of their expedition is not known. The trouble is due to the charge of settlers that the Indians killed their cattle, and counter charges of Indians that the settlers continually intrude on the reservation.

Governor Smith has wired President McKinley protesting against the action of Captain Stouch, and asking that he be directed not to interfere with civil officers. Stouch says he can and will arrest the murderers as soon as the excitement dies out.

Has Divulged No Secrets.

HAVANA, June 1.—W. J. Calhoun, the United States commissioner, who is investigating the death in the prison at Guanabacoa, of Dr. Ricardo Ruiz, was interviewed with reference to the article making an indirect attack upon him. He said: "Mr. Pepper is in no way connected with the commission. On the contrary, he came to Havana on his own account, as other correspondents might have come. No secrets of the commission have been divulged, nor has any special information been supplied to him which was not obtainable by other correspondents. I suppose Mr. Pepper's information was gathered from personal information or from hearsay."

The royal arsenal at Woolwich employs about 15,000 workmen and has 40 miles of internal railways.

An Interchangeable Ticket Discussed.

NASHVILLE, June 1.—The number of delegates to the National Travelers Protective association, which is in session here, is very large. Much interest is shown in the election, J. A. Lee of St. Louis declining to again serve, and the contest for president promises to be a lively one. The 5,000 mile interchangeable railway ticket is the prominent subject discussed by the delegates and by the many railroad men who are also in attendance.

Has One Fear.

"You can recommend this horse, then?"

"Certainly. He is as kind as can be, and there is only one thing that he's afraid of."

"What is that?"

"He's afraid somebody will say 'whoa' to him and he won't hear it."

Novelty Glass Factories Destroyed.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 1.—Entire works of the Novelty Glass company, including two factory buildings, was destroyed by fire, involving a loss of $70,000, partially covered by insurance. It was feared the falling of the walls would cause the fire to extend to a row of buildings, but the firemen did good work and got the fire under control. Seventy-five men are thrown out of employment.

HONORED THE SOLDIERS

Impressive Services at the Old Cemetery.

DOCTOR HASTINGS' ADDRESS

The Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and School Children Marched Through the streets, and Paid Tribute to the Dead Heroes of Another Generation.

It was an ideal Memorial day. The weather was perfect, and not a hitch came to mar the excellent arrangements of the Grand Army.

It was 1:30 o'clock when the Grand Army gathered at Fourth and Washington streets; and the school children in charge of their teachers and Superintendent Sanor were marshalled at Central building. The parade formed in this order:

- Squad of Police.
- Drum Corps.
- Sons of Veterans.
- Grand Army.
- School Children.

The column moved to Broadway, to Fifth, to the cemetery. There the ceremonies were those of other years, old it is true, but as beautiful and impressive yesterday as upon the first Memorial day. The Grand Army opened ranks at the mound, and the school children passed through, dropping flowers or a tiny flag as they passed. A circle was formed, and with bared heads the veterans heard Commander A. H. McCoy pass through the ritual. W. H. Surles prayed, and the salute was fired, while the stirring notes of "America," sung by all the people there, sounded through the old cemetery. That ended the program, but it was late before all the people had left the cemetery.

At 8 o'clock the Grand Army assembled in their hall and marched to the First U. P. church, where Rev. Wm. Hastings, D. D., of Toronto, delivered the address. The church was well filled, and the address was interesting. Doctor Hastings said in part:

"We, the living, can only show appreciation of what these dead comrades did by decorating their graves. I feel assured the dead will some day know what we did for them. Their memory will never be forgotten. Not a slave in this great country clanked his chains behind him when our soldiers marched through Washington in 1865. Let us teach our children that their fathers' war was a war that will live as long as the nations stand. Since God is good, and God is just, there is not a man in the world who will escape the penalty of God. We cannot forget the tears and sorrows of the past, and we cannot forget the deeds. You have visited this day the city of the dead, and garlanded the graves with flowers. Have you failed to recall the brave action of the men who lie there? I don't think you have. The sentence of the dead is for no man. The grave is silent. From it comes no voice of anguish. So let it be with us. Let the dead bury their dead, our duty is to care for the living. All our soldiers were brave, fearless Americans, men, every one of them. America is the best land in the world. God help us to keep it so. America first, last and forever!"

A QUICK TURN

Saved a Pair of Drunks From Being Run Down.

Two men, under the influence of liquor, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon. They were driving down Broadway at a rapid rate when a fast freight crossed the street. The horse turned, and the buggy struck the fire plug in front of the National House throwing out the occupants. They were not hurt.

Only an Accident.

Sunday afternoon as a number of the teachers at the West End chapel were walking in Jethro street some small boys threw a basket of rotten eggs over the hill. The parties escaped except a lady teacher, who had her dress liberally sprinkled with stale eggs. The accident was due to carelessness, and was not intentional.

We Won One.

The chicken fight Saturday at Line Island attracted a large crowd. Sports from Pittsburgh, New Brighton and Beaver Falls were on hand, but only eight battles were fought. Seven were won by New Brighton parties while this city carried off the other.

NO BATTLE FOUGHT.

Indians Don't Want to Fight Soldiers, But Cowboys.

HELENA, Mont., June 1.—Reports of the killing of several men by the Cheyenne Indians at Home Deer agency are not verified. It is not believed that any one was killed except a sheep herder named Hoover, whose murder some time ago caused the excitement. Settlers and cowboys determined to avenge his death and give the Cheyennes an object lesson to deter them from similar acts in the future. They sent all the women and children to places of safety, armed themselves and congregated near the agency and demanded the surrender of the Indians accused of murdering Hoover. The Indians armed themselves and made the threatening demonstrations against the whites, but no battle has been fought nor massacres begun so far as is known. Six companies of United States troops are at the agency. The Indians declare that they do not want to fight the soldiers, but are anxious to have a brush with the white settlers and cowboys.

There is a conflict of authority between Indian Agent Captain Stouch and the sheriff of Custer county. The sheriff's deputies were ordered off the reservation by the agents. They returned to Miles City and got a warrant for the arrest of the agent for interfering with the officers and started back to arrest him. Lame Deer is 60 miles from a telegraph office and the result of their expedition is not known. The trouble is due to the charge of settlers that the Indians killed their cattle, and counter charges of Indians that the settlers continually intrude on the reservation.

Governor Smith has wired President McKinley protesting against the action of Captain Stouch, and asking that he be directed not to interfere with civil officers. Stouch says he can and will arrest the murderers as soon as the excitement dies out.

Has Divulged No Secrets.

HAVANA, June 1.—W. J. Calhoun, the United States commissioner, who is investigating the death in the prison at Guanabacoa, of Dr. Ricardo Ruiz, was interviewed with reference to the article making an indirect attack upon him. He said: "Mr. Pepper is in no way connected with the commission. On the contrary, he came to Havana on his own account, as other correspondents might have come. No secrets of the commission have been divulged, nor has any special information been supplied to him which was not obtainable by other correspondents. I suppose Mr. Pepper's information was gathered from personal information or from hearsay."

The royal arsenal at Woolwich employs about 15,000 workmen and has 40 miles of internal railways.

An Interchangeable Ticket Discussed.

NASHVILLE, June 1.—The number of delegates to the National Travelers Protective association, which is in session here, is very large. Much interest is shown in the election, J. A. Lee of St. Louis declining to again serve, and the contest for president promises to be a lively one. The 5,000 mile interchangeable railway ticket is the prominent subject discussed by the delegates and by the many railroad men who are also in attendance.

His One Fear.

"You can recommend this horse, then?" "Certainly. He is as kind as can be, and there is only one thing that he's afraid of." "What is that?" "He's afraid somebody will say 'whoa' to him and he won't hear it." —Pearson's Weekly.

Bread Brings Luck.

The Swedish bride fills her pockets with bread, which she dispenses to every one she meets on her way to the church, every piece she disposes of averting, as she believes, a misfortune. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Novelty Glass Factories Destroyed.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 1.—Entire works of the Novelty Glass company, including two factory buildings, was destroyed by fire, involving a loss of $70,000, partially covered by insurance. It was feared the falling of the walls would cause the fire to extend to a row of buildings, but the firemen did good work and got the fire under control. Seventy-five men are thrown out of employment.

Ambassador Hay Attends a Levee.

LONDON, June 1.—The United States ambassador, Colonel John Hay, and all the staff of the United States embassy, attended the levee which the Prince of Wales held at St. James palace. Colonel Hay presented the Hon. Levi P. Morton in the diplomatic circle.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, JUNE 1.

THE Democrats are doing much talking and making little headway in their fight against the tariff.

It will be a happy time for this nation when congress can see its way clear to melt the sugar trust.

THE returns from the Jefferson county primaries show that the Garfield law is not answering the purpose for which it was intended.

OHIO's gold Democrats are not a consideration this year. McLean and his crowd will have nothing to do with them, and they must organize for themselves or continue as they are at present, men without a party.

It is amusing to see the Democratic press covering congress with mud because the new tariff law would impose an additional tax on beer. Let us see, didn't a very large proportion of Prohibitionists stand with the Democratic party last year because of the silver question?

McLEAN can import Bryan and as many other western orators as he thinks are necessary to convince Ohio of the importance of the District of Columbia having a senator, but they must not think it will all be clear sailing. Major Dick will be here during the entire campaign, and Major Dick knows a thing or two about politics.

If Massillon should fall into the muddy old canal it would come out as dry as though it had been sitting by a coal fire during the entire winter. It was not only presented with a handsome building for library purposes by a generous citizen, but another came cheerfully to the front and gave an endowment fund of $20,000.

DEMOCRATIC papers, with abundant space and little news, are saying a great deal about American workmen of the Westinghouse company at Pittsburg tearing down the president's picture and trampling it in the dust. Of course there is nothing in it. American workmen, no matter what their grievance, do not insult the president of the United States.

If the tariff bill is not a law by July 1 no one can be blamed but the Democrats. As usual they are doing their best to keep out prosperity and prevent the administration from carrying out its promises. Should the summer prove a disappointment for the thousands who expect the speedy opening of mills and factories and the return of wages taken away by Democracy, the Democratic representation in congress will be responsible.

GAMBLING IN OHIO.

Mayor Black, of Columbus, proposes to call a meeting of the mayors of Ohio for the purpose of discussing the question of gambling, and if possible devising some plan that will keep this particular sin under the eyes of the authorities. Any move of that kind is commendable, and an interchange of views will hurt no one. There are difficulties in the enforcement of the law which might be smoothed down a considerable degree if the matter was thoroughly and ably discussed. With a uniform system of prosecution there would be no asylum for the gambler if he was driven from one city in the state. All would know him, all would treat him with the same severity.

Mr. Decker Here.

Mr. Decker, who will have charge of the spectacular production, the "Mystic Midgets," has arrived in the city, and will have personal supervision of the rehearsals.

THE HORSE RAN AWAY

All the Occupants of the Carriage Thrown Out.

MRS. WYLLIE WAS BADLY HURT

Distressing Accident on the Calcutta Road.
A Maddened Team Dashed the Conveyance Against a Stone Wall and Hurt Almost Every Member of the Party.

A runaway accident Sunday afternoon resulted in the serious injury of Mrs. John Wyllie.

The occupants of the carriage were the injured lady, Harry Wyllie, Mrs. Anthony of Allegheny and Miss Anna Wyllie. They had started shortly after noon to take a drive, and it was noticed that the horses were hitched too close, but it was thought if they would drive slow nothing would happen. After stopping at Riverview cemetery for a short time it was decided to go to Calcutta.

All went well until they started down hill, when at every step the heels of the horses struck the carriage. This frightened them and they started at a terrific rate of speed. Harry Wyllie who was driving succeeded in keeping them in the road and passing several carriages. When about one hundred feet this side of the culvert near the Andrews farm another carriage was passed, but there was not enough room and the runaway struck the stone wall at the culvert. The carriage was overturned, and the occupants thrown out. Mrs. Wyllie had hold of the side of the carriage, and it is supposed when the shock came her arm was dislocated. In falling her arm was broken and the carriage passed over her hip fracturing it. Miss Anna alighted on a cushion, and was not injured, while Mrs. Anthony sustained a sprained ankle. The carriage passed over the foot of Harry Wyllie, but he was not injured beyond a few bruises. The injured lady was carried into the residence of Mr. Andrews, and a physician called. When he arrived it was discovered he would need other medical assistance in reducing the fractures and it was decided to bring the lady home. She is resting easy today, but it is feared she is permanently injured.

Sunday morning, while coming down the hill west of the Andrews place in the Calcutta road on his bicycle, Tom York met with a painful accident. The fork broke at the crown, and he was thrown to the ground with terrific force, where he lay unconscious for several minutes. He was conveyed to his home, where it was found he had received no dangerous injuries, but the left side of his face is cut in a frightful manner.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

A Tribute From the M. P. S. S. and the Y. P. S. C. E. of East Liverpool, O.

To the memory of Sister Annie Rowe, who departed this life May 19, 1897:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to take from our midst one who, since her conversion Jan. 16, 1894, has never been absent from a single meeting, except through sickness; therefore

Resolved, That we express our sincere regret and grief that our Sister Annie has gone from among us, though we feel that for her she shall rejoice evermore.

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Annie we are reminded of the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death, and we would warn the members of our societies to be ready for the home eternal in the heavens when the death train shall carry them into the great beyond.

Resolved, That we extend to the family and friends of our sister our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement, reminding them that the "Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away," and to him they must look for strength to bear this sorrow which has come upon them.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved family of our sister, and that they be published in the daily press as a testimonial of our grief and sympathy.

THE ARTIST A PROPHET.

So Suggested the Director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

It is not merely the private collectors who are practiced on by the traffickers in bogus "old masters." Sometimes they fly higher and sometimes they may be deceived themselves. In the latter class, perhaps, was the woman who wrote to General di Cesnola, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, with the information that she owned a treasure which she wished to realize upon at once and would dispose of at a sacrifice. This treasure, she said, was a celebrated painting of St. Michael carving the dragon, according to the legend of the early Christian church. It was a very old subject, but the canvas was in a good state of preservation. Her great-grandfather had dug it out of the ruins of Herculaneum.

General di Cesnola at once dictated a reply, in which he said in substance: "Madam, if the facts are as you state, you are holding the painting at too low a figure. It is worth millions if it is worth a cent. Herculaneum has been lying under the lava of Vesuvius for 2,000 years. That the canvas should have escaped destruction when the mountain poured forth its fiery contents on the towns at its base is indeed remarkable; that it has further resisted the disintegrating hand of time is no less remarkable; that the artist should have shown a spirit of prophecy and delineated an incident of the Christian religion long before it happened is more than remarkable. It is miraculous. You should keep the St. Michael!"

In a day or so the director received a second letter from the woman. It ran thus: "If the picture is really so valuable, I don't see why you won't take it at $500."—New York Mail and Express.

SHE HANGED A STOVE.

The Woman Was Arrested, However, For Trying to Kill Her Husband.

To intend to hang one's husband and to find instead of a body a stove at the other end of the rope is calculated most certainly to surprise the would be murderer, and to such surprise, in a case related by a French paper, must be added the unpleasant fact that the woman who hanged the stove was arrested on the charge of attempted assassination.

She disliked her husband, who had an unfortunate propensity for strong drink, and, on his returning home one evening intoxicated, resolved to kill him in such a manner as to suggest that he had committed suicide. The man went to bed in his tipsy condition and was soon sleeping soundly. His amiable partner thought this to be the favorable moment for dispatching him to another world, and accordingly set about making her arrangements.

In the ceiling, just above the bed, there was a hole capable of allowing a stout rope to pass. The woman went up into the room above, let a rope slip through the hole, and, returning to the chamber in which her husband slept, attached it by a slip knot round his neck. This done, she went up stairs again, drew the rope tight through the hole in the ceiling and attached it to a beam.

Then, when she believed the job had been done, she rushed, weeping, into the street, telling the neighbors that her husband had just committed suicide. On entering the house, what, however, was their surprise to find a portable stove in the place of a corpse! The husband, who was less drunk than his wife imagined, had released himself and substituted the stove in the nick of time.

Bicycle In African War.

One would scarcely expect to find bicycles and a bicycle club in the heart of Africa and 600 miles from any railroad. One club in Bulawayo, Matabeleland, South Africa, is in a flourishing condition, having 25 members out of a population of 2,500.

During the late war in Matabeleland these bicyclers all rendered valuable service to the English. By them scouts were often able to "locate the enemy" or to deliver a message where a man on horseback would not have dared to go, for a Kaffir can outrun a horse every time—that is, such horses as they have in Africa.

In one instance a bicyclist put to rout a whole impi (a camp) of Kaffirs, who evidently never had seen a bicycle before, and this man, who came nearer to the camp than he had had any intention of doing, and who was much alarmed for his own safety when he realized where he was, took heart again when he saw these Kaffirs throw up their hands as if in consternation, and, uttering savage sounds and noises, jump to their feet and run for their lives. They evidently thought the devil was after them.—New York Press.

For Domestic Woe.

One of the guides at the capitol had an amusing experience. A countryman was shown the wonders of the whispering gallery and the stone which deadens all sound.

After the usual experiment was completed, he astonished the guide by saying: "Mister, kin a body git a stone like that thar hyar in Washington? Yo' see, my wife gits cantankerous at times, an she kin talk pow'ful hard when she gits started. If I could git one o' them things ter stan on out in our kitchen, I'd be willin ter pay well fer it."—Washington Star.

Hope and Reality.

"I can laugh about it now," said the retired business man, "but at the time it was one of the serious affairs of life. Young Stems and I had been thrown together almost constantly up to the time that each struck out for himself. He was attracted to the west, where he saw visions of a big fortune in a short time, while I decided to avail myself of an opening in the east. There was a good deal of sentiment in our leave taking. 'We can't be together,' I said, 'but we must never lose track of each other, as so many men do who were friends in their boyhood. I would not care to be prosperous if I knew you were in want unless I could help you, and I'm sure that you have the same feeling in regard to me.'

"Of course he had, and immediately made a proposition that at the end of five years after both of us had taken a good twist at the world we render a financial statement to each other, the one in need of money to accept it from the other as a loan."

"Did you carry out the compact?" "As nearly as possible. On the very date I wrote him that I could pull through on $250 he wrote me that he had a small fortune in sight if he had $300 to tide him over an immediate embarrassment. Each expressed a hope and a confidence that the other had been doing well. Our letters passed, and so did the replies, in which regrets were exchanged because neither was in a position to assist the other. Five years later we were both men of moderate means, and I traveled half way across the continent just that we might exchange assurances that youthful hopes make a striking contrast with the realities of after life."—Detroit Free Press.

The Austrian National Hymn.

The Austrian national anthem is one of the most beautiful of Haydn's melodies and of national hymns. The words of the "Emperor's Hymn" were written by the Jesuit priest L. L. Haschka, and were set to music by Haydn. On Jan. 28, 1797, Count von Saurau, governor of Vienna, issued a decree that "Gott erhalte Franz den Kaiser" should be the Austrian national hymn, and on Feb. 12 it was by order sung in all the theaters of Vienna. In England it is familiar as the hymn tune "Austria." It is often sung to Newton's lines, "Glorious things of thee are spoken," and sometimes also to Kemphorne's "Praise the Lord, ye heavens, adore him."

Haydn's affection for this beautiful melody is well known. He afterward employed it for the variations in the "Kaiserquartet," op. 76, No. 3, and when he was near death and too weak to stand he was carried across the room to the clavier and solemnly played the tune three times, according to Herr Pohl, as his farewell to art. William Gardiner, the Leicestershire stocking maker and musical amateur, sent Haydn six pairs of stockings woven with the air of "Gott erhalte" and other melodies.—London News.

Landon and Wordsworth.

Walter Savage Landon was an intemperate person in words and hated Wordsworth. Were there ever more contemptuous words than these of Landon's in reference to Wordsworth? "Pastiness and flatness are the qualities of a pancake, and thus far he attained his end. * * * Let him place the accessories on the table, lest what is insipid and clammy * * * grow into duller accretion and moister viscosity the more I masticate it." In Landon's letter to Ralph Waldo Emerson he writes: "We must now descend to Wordsworth. He often gave an opinion on authors which he never had read, Plato for instance. He speaks contemptuously of the Scotch. * * * I praised a line of Scott's on the dog of a traveler lost in the snow (if I remember) on Skiddaw. He said it was the only good one in the poem and began instantly to recite a whole poem of his own on the same subject."

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, JUNE 1.

The Democrats are doing much talking and making little headway in their fight against the tariff.

It will be a happy time for this nation when congress can see its way clear to melt the sugar trust.

The returns from the Jefferson county primaries show that the Garfield law is not answering the purpose for which it was intended.

OHIO's gold Democrats are not a consideration this year. McLean and his crowd will have nothing to do with them, and they must organize for themselves or continue as they are at present, men without a party.

It is amusing to see the Democratic press covering congress with mud because the new tariff law would impose an additional tax on beer. Let us see, didn't a very large proportion of Prohibitionists stand with the Democratic party last year because of the silver question?

McLEAN can import Bryan and as many other western orators as he thinks are necessary to convince Ohio of the importance of the District of Columbia having a senator, but they must not think it will all be clear sailing. Major Dick will be here during the entire campaign, and Major Dick knows a thing or two about politics.

If Massillon should fall into the muddy old canal it would come out as dry as though it had been sitting by a coal fire during the entire winter. It was not only presented with a handsome building for library purposes by a generous citizen, but another came cheerfully to the front and gave an endowment fund of $20,000.

DEMOCRATIC papers, with abundant space and little news, are saying a great deal about American workmen of the Westinghouse company at Pittsburg tearing down the president's picture and trampling it in the dust. Of course there is nothing in it. American workmen, no matter what their grievance, do not insult the president of the United States.

If the tariff bill is not a law by July 1 no one can be blamed but the Democrats. As usual they are doing their best to keep out prosperity and prevent the administration from carrying out its promises. Should the summer prove a disappointment for the thousands who expect the speedy opening of mills and factories and the return of wages taken away by Democracy, the Democratic representation in congress will be responsible.

GAMBLING IN OHIO.

Mayor Black, of Columbus, proposes to call a meeting of the mayors of Ohio for the purpose of discussing the question of gambling, and if possible devising some plan that will keep this particular sin under the eyes of the authorities. Any move of that kind is commendable, and an interchange of views will hurt no one. There are difficulties in the enforcement of the law which might be smoothed down a considerable degree if the matter was thoroughly and ably discussed. With a uniform system of prosecution there would be no asylum for the gambler if he was driven from one city in the state. All would know him, all would treat him with the same severity.

Mr. Decker Here.

Mr. Decker, who will have charge of the spectacular production, the "Mystic Midgits," has arrived in the city, and will have personal supervision of the rehearsals.

THE HORSE RAN AWAY

All the Occupants of the Carriage Thrown Out.

MRS. WYLLIE WAS BADLY HURT

Distressing Accident on the Calcutta Road. A Maddened Team Dashed the Conveyance Against a Stone Wall and Hurt Almost Every Member of the Party.

A runaway accident Sunday afternoon resulted in the serious injury of Mrs. John Wyllie.

The occupants of the carriage were the injured lady, Harry Wyllie, Mrs. Anthony of Allegheny and Miss Anna Wyllie. They had started shortly after noon to take a drive, and it was noticed that the horses were hitched too close, but it was thought if they would drive slow nothing would happen. After stopping at Riverview cemetery for a short time it was decided to go to Calcutta.

All went well until they started down hill, when at every step the heels of the horses struck the carriage. This frightened them and they started at a terrific rate of speed. Harry Wyllie who was driving succeeded in keeping them in the road and passing several carriages. When about one hundred feet this side of the culvert near the Andrews farm another carriage was passed, but there was not enough room and the runaway struck the stone wall at the culvert. The carriage was overturned, and the occupants thrown out. Mrs. Wyllie had hold of the side of the carriage, and it is supposed when the shock came her arm was dislocated. In falling her arm was broken and the carriage passed over her hip fracturing it. Miss Anna alighted on a cushion, and was not injured, while Mrs. Anthony sustained a sprained ankle. The carriage passed over the foot of Harry Wyllie, but he was not injured beyond a few bruises. The injured lady was carried into the residence of Mr. Andrews, and a physician called. When he arrived it was discovered he would need other medical assistance in reducing the fractures and it was decided to bring the lady home. She is resting easy today, but it is feared she is permanently injured.

Sunday morning, while coming down the hill west of the Andrews place in the Calcutta road on his bicycle, Tom York met with a painful accident. The fork broke at the crown, and he was thrown to the ground with terrific force, where he lay unconscious for several minutes. He was conveyed to his home, where it was found he had received no dangerous injuries, but the left side of his face is cut in a frightful manner.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

A Tribute From the M. P. S. S. and the Y. P. S. C. E. of East Liverpool, O.

To the memory of Sister Annie Rowe, who departed this life May 19, 1897:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to take from our midst one who, since her conversion Jan. 16, 1894, has never been absent from a single meeting, except through sickness; therefore

Resolved, That we express our sincere regret and grief that our Sister Annie has gone from among us, though we feel that for her she shall rejoice evermore.

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Annie we are reminded of the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death, and we would warn the members of our societies to be ready for the home eternal in the heavens when the death train shall carry them into the great beyond.

Resolved, That we extend to the family and friends of our sister our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement, reminding them that the "Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away," and to him they must look for strength to bear this sorrow which has come upon them.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved family of our sister, and that they be published in the daily press as a testimonial of our grief and sympathy.

THE ARTIST A PROPHET.

So Suggested the Director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

It is not merely the private collectors who are practiced on by the traffickers in bogus "old masters." Sometimes they fly higher and sometimes they may be deceived themselves. In the latter class, perhaps, was the woman who wrote to General di Cesnola, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, with the information that she owned a treasure which she wished to realize upon at once and would dispose of at a sacrifice. This treasure, she said, was a celebrated painting of St. Michael carving the dragon, according to the legend of the early Christian church. It was a very old subject, but the canvas was in a good state of preservation. Her great-grandfather had dug it out of the ruins of Herculaneum.

General di Cesnola at once dictated a reply, in which he said in substance: "Madam, if the facts are as you state, you are holding the painting at too low a figure. It is worth millions if it is worth a cent. Herculaneum has been lying under the lava of Vesuvius for 2,000 years. That the canvas should have escaped destruction when the mountain poured forth its fiery contents on the towns at its base is indeed remarkable; that it has further resisted the disintegrating hand of time is no less remarkable; that the artist should have shown a spirit of prophecy and delineated an incident of the Christian religion long before it happened is more than remarkable. It is miraculous. You should keep the St. Michael!"

In a day or so the director received a second letter from the woman. It ran thus: "If the picture is really so valuable, I don't see why you won't take it at $500."—New York Mail and Express.

SHE HANGED A STOVE.

The Woman Was Arrested, However, For Trying to Kill Her Husband.

To intend to hang one's husband and to find instead of a body a stove at the other end of the rope is calculated most certainly to surprise the would be murderer, and to such surprise, in a case related by a French paper, must be added the unpleasant fact that the woman who hanged the stove was arrested on the charge of attempted assassination.

She disliked her husband, who had an unfortunate propensity for strong drink, and, on his returning home one evening intoxicated, resolved to kill him in such a manner as to suggest that he had committed suicide. The man went to bed in his tipsy condition and was soon sleeping soundly. His amiable partner thought this to be the favorable moment for dispatching him to another world, and accordingly set about making her arrangements.

In the ceiling, just above the bed, there was a hole capable of allowing a stout rope to pass. The woman went up into the room above, let a rope slip through the hole, and, returning to the chamber in which her husband slept, attached it by a slip knot round his neck. This done, she went up stairs again, drew the rope tight through the hole in the ceiling and attached it to a beam.

Then, when she believed the job had been done, she rushed, weeping, into the street, telling the neighbors that her husband had just committed suicide. On entering the house, what, however, was their surprise to find a portable stove in the place of a corpse! The husband, who was less drunk than his wife imagined, had released himself and substituted the stove in the nick of time.

Bicycle In African War.

One would scarcely expect to find bicycles and a bicycle club in the heart of Africa and 600 miles from any railroad. One club in Bulawayo, Matabeleland, South Africa, is in a flourishing condition, having 25 members out of a population of 2,500.

During the late war in Matabeleland these bicyclers all rendered valuable service to the English. By them scouts were often able to "locate the enemy" or to deliver a message where a man on horseback would not have dared to go, for a Kafir can outrun a horse every time—that is, such horses as they have in Africa.

In one instance a bicyclist put to rout a whole impi (a camp) of Kaffirs, who evidently never had seen a bicycle before, and this man, who came nearer to the camp than he had had any intention of doing, and who was much alarmed for his own safety when he realized where he was, took heart again when he saw these Kaffirs throw up their hands as if in consternation, and, uttering savage sounds and noises, jump to their feet and run for their lives. They evidently thought the devil was after them.—New York Press.

For Domestic Woe.

One of the guides at the capitol had an amusing experience. A countryman was shown the wonders of the whispering gallery and the stone which deadens all sound.

After the usual experiment was completed, he astonished the guide by saying: "Mister, kin a body git a stone like that thar hyar in Washington? Yo' see, my wife gits cantankerous at times, an she kin talk pow'ful hard when she gits started. If I could git one o' them things ter stan on out in our kitchen, I'd be willin ter pay well fer it."—Washington Star.

Hope and Reality.

"I can laugh about it now," said the retired business man, "but at the time it was one of the serious affairs of life. Young Stems and I had been thrown together almost constantly up to the time that each struck out for himself. He was attracted to the west, where he saw visions of a big fortune in a short time, while I decided to avail myself of an opening in the east. There was a good deal of sentiment in our leave taking. "We can't be together," I said, "but we must never lose track of each other, as so many men do who were friends in their boyhood. I would not care to be prosperous if I knew you were in want unless I could help you, and I'm sure that you have the same feeling in regard to me."

"Of course he had, and immediately made a proposition that at the end of five years after both of us had taken a good twist at the world we render a financial statement to each other, the one in need of money to accept it from the other as a loan."

"Did you carry out the compact?" "As nearly as possible. On the very date I wrote him that I could pull through on $250 he wrote me that he had a small fortune in sight if he had $300 to tide him over an immediate embarrassment. Each expressed a hope and a confidence that the other had been doing well. Our letters passed, and so did the replies, in which regrets were exchanged because neither was in a position to assist the other. Five years later we were both men of moderate means, and I traveled half way across the continent just that we might exchange assurances that youthful hopes make a striking contrast with the realities of after life."—Detroit Free Press.

The Austrian National Hymn.

The Austrian national anthem is one of the most beautiful of Haydn's melodies and of national hymns. The words of the "Emperor's Hymn" were written by the Jesuit priest L. L. Haschka, and were set to music by Haydn. On Jan. 28, 1797, Count von Saurau, governor of Vienna, issued a decree that "Gott erhalte Franz den Kaiser" should be the Austrian national hymn, and on Feb. 12 it was by order sung in all the theaters of Vienna. In England it is familiar as the hymn tune "Austria." It is often sung to Newton's lines, "Glorious things of thee are spoken," and sometimes also to Kempthorne's "Praise the Lord, ye heavens, adore him."

Haydn's affection for this beautiful melody is well known. He afterward employed it for the variations in the "Kaiserquartet," op. 76, No. 3, and when he was near death and too weak to stand he was carried across the room to the clavier and solemnly played the tune three times, according to Herr Pohl, as his farewell to art. William Gardiner, the Leicestershire stocking maker and musical amateur, sent Haydn six pairs of stockings woven with the air of "Gott erhalte" and other melodies.—London News.

Landon and Wordsworth.

Walter Savage Landon was an intemperate person in words and hated Wordsworth. Were there ever more contemptuous words than these of Landon's in reference to Wordsworth? "Pastiness and flatness are the qualities of a pancake, and thus far he attained his end. * * * Let him place the accessories on the table, lest what is insipid and clammy * * * grow into duller accretion and moister viscosity the more I masticate it." In Landon's letter to Ralph Waldo Emerson he writes: "We must now descend to Wordsworth. He often gave an opinion on authors which he never had read, Plato for instance. He speaks contemptuously of the Scotch. * * * I praised a line of Scott's on the dog of a traveler lost in the snow (if I remember) on Skiddaw. He said it was the only good one in the poem and began instantly to recite a whole poem of his own on the same subject."

The Yellow Badge.

"Isn't it delightful," remarked the true woman, "when you are asked to dinner and find that the table has rose colored lamps?"

"I don't see it," answered the true man. "What difference do the rose lamps make?"

"If that isn't just like a man!" she retorted. "Rose shades make one's complexion exquisite. You have never been to a Princeton dinner evidently. Yellow does make a charming table—nothing prettier, in fact. But we poor women! Under saffron lamps it is the yellow badge of courage."—Philadelphia Press.

THE EARTHQUAKE.

It Was Felt on Both Sides of the River.

The earthquake yesterday afternoon was felt in many parts of the city. Mrs. M. E. Calhoun, Seventh street, was ill and the shock caused her to think something was shaking the house, while in a room downstairs articles on the table rattled at a great rate. In another residence the disturbed condition of the water in a bath tub caused the attention of the family to the fact that something unusual was happening. West Virginia farmers state that the shock was clearly felt in Hancock county.

CHANGED THEIR MIND.

Burglars Had Intended to Rob James Ford.

The store of James Ford, in Fifth street, was entered by thieves some time last night. This morning the back door was found open when the owner arrived, but no goods were missed. A note was left on the counter stating that they intended to rob the store, but they had reconsidered the matter. The police were notified, and are now at work on a clue.

ENJOYED THE DAY.

The Soldiers Had a Good Time in Akron.

Capt. W. M. Hill, in command of

Company E, went to Akron yesterday, where they took part in the Memorial day ceremonies. There were 39 soldiers in line, and they looked well. The command returned this morning after a pleasant day. The arrangements for their entertainment were perfect, dinner and supper being served by the ladies of the First Congregational church. Every company of the Eighth was in line.

SOME BUSINESS.

Mayor Gilbert Had a Few Cases of Wickedness to Consider. Harry Williams, L. M. Whitney and J. Neal were arrested on Second street last evening on a complaint filed by Superintendent Andrews. There were six men in the party, and they were in a car coming from Rock Spring. When the car reached the Virginia end of the bridge the men annoyed the passengers. Superintendent Andrews was in the car, and, with the assistance of the conductor, ejected the men. They came to this place, and waited for the superintendent. Hence the arrest. Williams is still in the coop, Neal paid $6.00, and the charge against Whitney was withdrawn.

Albert Thompson was arrested last night by Chief Johnson for being drunk and disorderly. Albert put up a bonus for his appearance tomorrow.

S. W. Cornish swore out a warrant this morning against Tim Williams, charging him with assault, with intent to kill and wound. The trouble occurred at Hutchison's boarding house in Sixth street over a suit of clothes. Dr. Hobbs was called to sew up a few cuts in William Cornish's head. Williams will be given a hearing tonight.

James Cannon has been released, after serving the city about three weeks.

Pat Mooney, who was arrested Sunday last, will be the city janitor for a time.

THE MATRIMONIAL QUESTION.

A Divorce Asked and Marriage Licenses Wanted.

Lisbon, June 1.--[Special]--Susan Given wants a divorce from C. S. Given to whom she was married twelve years ago in Steubenville. On one occasion she alleges he drew a revolver threatening to take her life.

Marriage licences were issued to William P. Williams and Nancy Greenwood, East Liverpool; Rosarie Parise and Philomena Coscer, Wellsville; E. L. Hartzell and Marey Fahey, Leetonia.

ASSOCIATION SUNDAY.

It Was Observed With Many Good Ad-

resses. Association Sunday was observed in the city in a fitting manner. The speakers were distributed as follows: First Presbyterian, W. A. Kling and G. K. Shurtliff; Methodist Protestant and First U. P., W. H. Charles, O. A. Tabor; Christian, M. C. Williams, W. A. Kling; First M. E., G. K. Shurtliff, M. C. Williams. The meetings could not have been better, all the addresses being eloquent and interesting.

AFTER THE FERRYBOAT.

It Encroached on the Business of the Park Company.

The ferryboat yesterday afternoon conveyed many passengers to Rock Spring park. The owner of the boat was ordered to stop or he would be held personally responsible, and it is likely a suit will follow, as the owners of the park also own the river front, and a landing cannot be made without encroaching on their territory.

Card of Thanks.

To our many friends, we desire to return our thanks for the many acts of kindness shown us during the late illness and death of our dear daughter and sister, Grace. We not only have lost a loving and affectionate daughter and sister, as her life was the light of our home, so was her life to her many appreciative and sympathizing friends old and young. In our grief and bereavement we thank you one and all.

"I am," said the brother, who had been grumbling. "It is what I ain't got that I am dissatisfied about."--Cincinnati Enquirer.

M'LAUGHLIN IS IN JAIL

Life In Arkansas Is by No Means Pleasant.

HE DIDN'T ACT IN THE RIGHT WAY

The Reverend-Attorney Was In Charge of a Church, but They Did Not Appreciate His Kind and Gentle Disposition, and He Was Suspended.

Rev. J. B. McLaughlin, attorney and minister, who by his gentle demeanor made a reputation in this city several years ago, has been having a hard time of it in Arkansas. A special from Hot Springs says:

"There was rather a sensational denouncement in the celebrated case of Rev. J. B. McLaughlin this morning. The details of the case are familiar to the public. McLaughlin was pastor of the Methodist church, and was tried for behavior unbecoming a minister of the gospel. The church trial resulted in finding the accused guilty on several charges of misrepresentation and contentiousness, and he was suspended from the pastorate. McLaughlin refused to retire or give up the keys of the church. The matter was taken into chancery court and an injunction was granted restraining him from the use of the church and commanding him to turn the keys over to the official board of the church. This, also, he declined to do, and instead delivered the keys to the officers of the Presbyterian congregation, from whom the Methodists rented their house of worship. This morning Laughlin was cited to appear and show cause for this contempt, and upon hearing of the case, the defendant was fined $50 and sentenced to ten days in the Garland county jail. He is a member of the law firm of McLaughlin, Tucker & Cole, of Little Rock."

The Old Virginia Fiddler.

What has become of the old Virginia fiddler who was known and greeted by all the young people for miles around?

Of old there could be no Christmas in the country without him. He was as indispensable as the children's stockings, the eggnog bowl, the roasted shoit, the mince pie or the stuffed turkey. He was the important functionary at every dance and called out the figures in an unchangeable voice, which grew fiercer and fiercer as he warmed up to his work. Has our old friend disappeared? Is his fiddle cracked and his bow unstrung? Has he been unable to withstand the invasion of his territory by the piano and the piano agent? We fear so. We hear of him very seldom now, whereas in the times bygone at Christmas his name was on every tongue, and his bow was a scepter wielded over many willing subjects. Happily for him that he found suitable eulogists before his type was extinct. Dr. George W. Bagby, that great humorist and player upon the heart strings of men, in numerous sketches, and the founder of this paper, in his delightful, realistic reminiscences, have both described and immortalized the old Virginia fiddler. And well they did, for he is becoming as rare as the buffalo upon the western prairies. But well he served his day and generation before he laid down "de fiddle and de bow."--Richmond Dispatch.

The question of the hour is, are you in the market for the best line of clothing in America? We must sell this stock at some low price. We have a customer for our stock when reduced to a certain point.

We are nearing that point very rapidly therefore, we say again the time is short, and if you are needing a spring suit, now is your opportunity to purchase at less price than manufacturer's price. THE EARTHQUAKE.

It Was Felt on Both Sides of the River.

The earthquake yesterday afternoon was felt in many parts of the city. Mrs. M. E. Calhoun, Seventh street, was ill and the shock caused her to think something was shaking the house, while in a room downstairs articles on the table rattled at a great rate. In another residence the disturbed condition of the water in a bath tub caused the attention of the family to the fact that something unusual was happening. West Virginia farmers state that the shock was clearly felt in Hancock county.

CHANGED THEIR MIND.

Burglars Had Intended to Rob James Ford.

The store of James Ford, in Fifth street, was entered by thieves some time last night. This morning the back door was found open when the owner arrived, but no goods were missed. A note was left on the counter stating that they intended to rob the store, but they had reconsidered the matter. The police were notified, and are now at work on a clue.

ENJOYED THE DAY.

The Soldiers Had a Good Time in Akron.

Capt. W. M. Hill, in command of

Company E, went to Akron yesterday, where they took part in the Memorial day ceremonies. There were 39 soldiers in line, and they looked well. The command returned this morning after a pleasant day. The arrangements for their entertainment were perfect, dinner and supper being served by the ladies of the First Congregational church. Every company of the Eighth was in line.

SOME BUSINESS.

Mayor Gilbert Had a Few Cases of Wick- edness to Consider.

Harry Williams, L. M. Whitney and J. Neal were arrested on Second street last evening on a complaint filed by Superintendent Andrews. There were six men in the party, and they were in a car coming from Rock Spring. When the car reached the Virginia end of the bridge the men annoyed the passengers. Superintendent Andrews was in the car, and, with the assistance of the conductor, ejected the men. They came to this place, and waited for the superintendent. Hence the arrest. Williams is still in the coop, Neal paid $6.00, and the charge against Whitney was withdrawn.

Albert Thompson was arrested last night by Chief Johnson for being drunk and disorderly. Albert put up a bonus for his appearance tomorrow.

S. W. Cornish swore out a warrant this morning against Tim Williams, charging him with assault, with intent to kill and wound. The trouble occurred at Hutchison's boarding house in Sixth street over a suit of clothes. Dr. Hobbs was called to sew up a few cuts in William Cornish's head. Williams will be given a hearing tonight.

James Cannon has been released, after serving the city about three weeks.

Pat Mooney, who was arrested Sunday last, will be the city janitor for a time.

THE MATRIMONIAL QUESTION.

A Divorce Asked and Marriage Licenses Wanted.

LISBON, June 1.--[Special]--Susan Given wants a divorce from C. S. Given to whom she was married twelve years ago in Steubenville. On one occasion she alleges he drew a revolver threatening to take her life.

Marriage licenses were issued to William P. Williams and Nancy Greenwood, East Liverpool; Rosarie Parise and Philomena Coscer, Wellsville; E. L. Hartzell and Marey Fahey, Leetonia.

ASSOCIATION SUNDAY.

It Was Observed With Many Good Addresses.

Association Sunday was observed in the city in a fitting manner. The speakers were distributed as follows: First Presbyterian, W. A. Kling and G. K. Shurtliff; Methodist Protestant and First U. P., W. H. Charles, O. A. Tabor; Christian, M. C. Williams, W. A. Kling; First M. E., G. K. Shurtliff, M. C. Williams. The meetings could not have been better, all the addresses being eloquent and interesting.

AFTER THE FERRYBOAT.

It Encroached on the Business of the Park Company.

The ferryboat yesterday afternoon conveyed many passengers to Rock Spring park. The owner of the boat was ordered to stop or he would be held personally responsible, and it is likely a suit will follow, as the owners of the park also own the river front, and a landing cannot be made without encroaching on their territory.

Card of Thanks.

To our many friends, we desire to return our thanks for the many acts of kindness shown us during the late illness and death of our dear daughter and sister, Grace. We not only have lost a loving and affectionate daughter and sister, as her life was the light of our home, so was her life to her many appreciative and sympathizing friends old and young. In our grief and bereavement we thank you one and all.

MRS. JENNIE KAIL AND DAUGHTER.

They Move.

William Cochrane and family have moved to this city from a place near Erie.

E. Harfield and family this morning shipped their household goods to East Palestine.

Where the Trouble Was.

"Brother," said the minister, "you should try to be content with what you have."

"I am," said the brother, who had been grumbling, "It is what I ain't got that I am dissatisfied about."--Cincinnati Enquirer.

Inevitable Conclusion.

McLAUGHLIN IS IN JAIL

Life In Arkansas Is by No Means Pleasant.

HE DIDN'T ACT IN THE RIGHT WAY

The Reverend-Attorney Was In Charge of a Church, but They Did Not Appreciate His Kind and Gentle Disposition, and He Was Suspended.

Rev. J. B. McLaughlin, attorney and minister, who by his gentle demeanor made a reputation in this city several years ago, has been having a hard time of it in Arkansas. A special from Hot Springs says:

"There was rather a sensational denouncement in the celebrated case of Rev. J. B. McLaughlin this morning. The details of the case are familiar to the public. McLaughlin was pastor of the Methodist church, and was tried for behavior unbecoming a minister of the gospel. The church trial resulted in finding the accused guilty on several charges of misrepresentation and contentiousness, and he was suspended from the pastorate. McLaughlin refused to retire or give up the keys of the church. The matter was taken into chancery court and an injunction was granted restraining him from the use of the church and commanding him to turn the keys over to the official board of the church. This, also, he declined to do, and instead delivered the keys to the officers of the Presbyterian congregation, from whom the Methodists rented their house of worship. This morning Laughlin was cited to appear and show cause for this contempt, and upon hearing of the case, the defendant was fined $50 and sentenced to ten days in the Garland county jail. He is a member of the law firm of McLaughlin, Tucker & Cole, of Little Rock."

The Old Virginia Fiddler.

What has become of the old Virginia fiddler who was known and greeted by all the young people for miles around?

Of old there could be no Christmas in the country without him. He was as indispensable as the children's stockings, the egg-nog bowl, the roasted shoit, the mince pie or the stuffed turkey. He was the important functionary at every dance and called out the figures in an unchangeable voice, which grew fiercer and fiercer as he warmed up to his work. Has our old friend disappeared? Is his fiddle cracked and his bow unstrung? Has he been unable to withstand the invasion of his territory by the piano and the piano agent? We fear so. We hear of him very seldom now, whereas in the times bygone at Christmas his name was on every tongue, and his bow was a scepter wielded over many willing subjects. Happily for him that he found suitable eulogists before his type was extinct. Dr. George W. Bagby, that great humorist and player upon the heart strings of men, in numerous sketches, and the founder of this paper, in his delightful, realistic reminiscences, have both described and immortalized the old Virginia fiddler. And well they did, for he is becoming as rare as the buffalo upon the western prairies. But well he served his day and generation before he laid down "de fiddle and de bow."--Richmond Dispatch.

The Time Is Short.

The question of the hour is, are you in the market for the best line of clothing in America? We must sell this stock at some low price. We have a customer for our stock when reduced to a certain point.

We are nearing that point very rapidly therefore, we say again the time is short, and if you are needing a spring suit, now is your opportunity to purchase at less price than manufacturer's price. Remember all is for sale, stock, fixtures and lease. All must go quickly at some price, as we are positively retiring from the business, and anxious to do so as quickly as possible. We say you can get prices of us that no firm in the state of Ohio can offer. Don't delay. This is an important matter for you.

SELECTION OF SUPERINTENDENT

Should Be Left With the Representatives of the People—Petitions Engender Strife Wants All to Work in Harmony—Will Move to Make It Unanimous.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—Permit a little space for a few words regarding the question that is agitating our citizens at present—viz., the selection of a superintendent of our schools for the coming year. The subject is one of vital importance, and in its consideration I trust that all prejudice and self interest will be laid aside, and that intelligent, honest reason, based on fact, will control all interested in this important matter.

First, let us have before our minds the fact that our school system is not designed to afford positions for instructors, nor for the purpose of teaching the tenets of any church or political party, or to be controlled by such; but simply as a means of defense to the state by educating her youth, making them to grow strong physically, morally and intellectually, thus laying a safe foundation for the future of our government. Our system of government is representative. The citizen voters surrender certain rights and vests the same in their representatives, and the law fixes their powers and rights, and these representatives solemnly swear that, according to the law and their ability, they will perform these duties. Such representatives occupy the vantage ground of being in position to know more of the real condition of the institutions they represent than the average citizen is supposed to know. Their action ought to be governed entirely by a knowledge of the needs as they are enabled to understand them, leaving out of view all aspirants for position and be governed entirely by the good they can do for the whole people. My purpose is not to advocate any man's claim for position. I hold myself independent to freely act up to the light I have or may gather before I render my decision. My aim is to do what I honestly believe will elevate our schools. We must never consent to the proposition, that if the present is the best we ever had, that consequently it is the best it is possible to attain. I freely admit that if our schools are perfectly satisfactory to all (or almost so) changes would not be wise. This information can only be attained by investigation.

I understand a petition is being circulated asking that the previous incumbent be retained. I ask for information from the petitioners, as they assume that this matter should be decided on their judgment rather than trust their representatives to exercise freedom to act on the knowledge of the true conditions that obtain in the premises. I have proper regard for the petition of a free people, based on an intelligent understanding of the matter in hand. Yet the fact remains, that ever since Israel petitioned God's representative for a king history abounds with instances where petitioners have made mistakes. It would have been better had they left their cause to be disposed of by the judgment of their representatives. I will most gladly welcome an interview with any petitioner who is in position to give me light as to what will be best for our school. Let reason prevail, but to the party boss or ring politician I say hands off. I confess I cannot figure out what a man's opinion on free trade, free silver, protection or prohibition has to do with the selection of a superintendent so long as we will not allow party politics in school. The connection is so remote as to scarcely justify a candidate in publicly defining his position on these questions.

Now seriously, my fellow citizens, do you think it is the best thing to do for our common cause to stir up a feeling among our people on this question? That a division of opinion exists no one will deny, and is there not danger that petitions and counter-petitions may result in prejudicing the patrons of our schools against whoever is chosen? Would it not be best for all to allow the board full freedom to settle this matter as your representatives? I believe they are all honest men who will do what they believe to be right. Personally, I shall welcome your petition, if you think that is the right thing to do, but after all my vote will be an individual act for which I must render an account to God, and conscience must have the right of way. But whatever the decision is, if I am in the minority I shall move to make it unanimous, and extend heart and hand to give our schools a royal advent into the twentieth century.

Yours,
J. C. McCLAIN.

ENGLISH LAWSUITS.

They Are Expensive, and the Lawyers Demand Big Fees and Retainers.

In England there are many fees to be paid by the unhappy client of a lawyer that are unknown here in America. There is a retaining fee, which is a guinea, and a half crown to the clerk, besides the brief fee, which is more important. Then there is the "refresher" of the leader and the "refreshers" of the subordinate lawyers. In England the leader's refreshment, which is due after five hours, the brief fee being supposed to cover only the getting up of the case, is 10 guineas, or a little over $50, while $25 must be paid to the lesser lawyers.

According to English etiquette, no counsel can leave his circuit to plead in another without a special retainer, which, in most cases, cannot be less than 300 guineas. This is probably to discourage "poaching."

A would be client once wrote to a famous American lawyer, stating a case for his opinion and inclosing a $20 note. The lawyer did not reply, whereupon the client wrote a second letter and received word from the lawyer that he had read the case and formed an opinion, but somehow it stuck in his throat. The client took the hint and sent a $100 note, receiving the lawyer's opinion by the next mail.

Nobody does anything for nothing, especially a lawyer. Lord Mansfield was so sensible of this that on one occasion, when he had attended to some legal business for himself, he took some guineas out of his purse and put them in his waistcoat pocket to give him the necessary stimulus. Sir Anthony Malone, an Irish attorney general, was so imprudent as to forget this fact and was grievously punished for it, for he was so inattentive to some property of his that he lost $15,000 a year by it, and in the future he required his clerk to make abstract deeds of any property he might buy and lay them before him, with a fee of 5 guineas, properly indorsed, which the clerk was to scrupulously account for, after which Sir Anthony made no more mistakes in regard to his own property.—Chicago News.

HE TRICKED JAY GOULD.

How Jim Fisk Checked Out the Little Man's Bank Account.

Gould kept a balance of some $30,000 in the Tenth National bank for his personal account, household expenses, etc. Being called west on a mission that lasted several weeks, he left his check-book locked in the safe drawer, to which Fisk had a key. In the office was a clever young clerk whom Fisk had caught in the act of imitating his and Gould's signatures, the imitation of Gould's being a facsimile. Within an hour after the wizard's departure check-book and clerk were together under Fisk's supervision, and at his instigation more than a dozen blank checks were signed with the name of Jay Gould, and in the course of a month the $30,000 had disappeared, Fisk being at that time in the clutches of Josie Mansfield.

On the very day of Gould's return the bank sent a notice of overdraft. The little man nearly fainted. He had several fits. His excitement was intense. He declared that there was a conspiracy to ruin him. He hastened to the bank, and they showed him the checks, signed by himself they did not doubt, and he raved and tore his hair. Nor could he doubt the signature. It was genuine, even in his own eyes. A rigid investigation was started, which Fisk put an end to by informing Gould, with many a poke in the ribs, that he had drawn and used the money.

"Did Fisk make good?" an innocent asked when the story was told.

"Return the $30,000?" was the reply. "If Fisk had returned it, Wall street would have cried."—New York Press.

Channel Island Despotism.

It is not generally known that something approaching a military despotism prevails in the Channel islands. Every male adult born in Guernsey or Jersey has to serve for a long term of years in the militia, 15 years being the period in Guernsey.

In addition to this, all males of 33 years of age and under, of whatever nationality, who reside in that island for a year and a day continuously have to enter the militia and serve for 15 years, or suffer fine, imprisonment or expulsion.

During the last two or three years a great number of young Englishmen have settled in Guernsey to go into the tomato raising industry.

In order to avoid the military service imposed by the "states"—as the government of Guernsey is called—they make frequent trips outside their jurisdiction—either to England or to Jersey—the last named having a government independent of the rest of the Channel islands.—London Letter.

Some time ago the queen of Italy asked a little girl to knit her a pair of silk mittens for her birthday, giving her the money for the material. A pair of beautifully worked mittens arrived on the queen's birthday. The little girl received in return another pair. One mitten contained lire, the other bonbons. Queen Marguerite inclosed a little note saying, "Tell me, my dear child, which you like best." The reply ran as follows:

DEAREST QUEEN—Your lovely presents have made me shed many tears. Papa took the mitten with the money. My brother had the bonbons.

Salaries in the Church of England.

As matters now stand it costs a pretty penny to maintain the pomp of that church of which "the queen is the supreme governor on earth."

The salary of the primate (archbishop of Canterbury) is the goodly sum of $75,000 per annum, punctually paid. The archbishop of York has $50,000; the bishop of London, $50,000; the bishop of Durham, $35,000; the bishop of Winchester, $32,500; the bishop of Bangor, $21,000; the bishop of Bath and Wells, $25,000; the bishop of Ely, $27,500; of Gloucester, $25,000; of Chester, $21,000; of Exeter, $21,000; of Hereford, Lichfield, Liverpool, Llandaff, Manchester, Ripon, St. Asaph, $21,000 each; of Carlisle, Lincoln, Norwich, Peterborough, St. Davids, $22,500 each; Oxford, Salisbury, Worcester, $25,000 each; Newcastle, $16,000; Rochester, $19,000; St. Albans, $16,000; Sodor and Man, $9,000; Southwell, $17,500; Truro, $15,000; Wakefield, $15,000, and then think of the army of deans, bishops suffragan, canons, etc., and one may infer that the Church of England is an expensive institution, representing a very high average of cost for each soul brought to grace.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Rain in a Bottle.

Engineering reports L. Errera as describing in Terre et Ciel a very simple method of producing rain, not of water, but of alcohol, and the winds which accompany its formation. A glass cylinder about 8 inches high and 4 inches in diameter is half filled with alcohol of 92 per cent, the cylinder being covered with an ordinary china saucer and slowly heated in a water bath, so that the whole becomes warm without beginning to boil. The vessel is then taken out of the bath and placed on a table, when vapors soon begin to condense on the saucer, clouds form and tiny regular drops fall down in vertical lines into the alcohol. The drops have an average diameter of forty or fifty millionths of a millimeter, but vary in size, the rain continuing for half an hour. The upper part soon clears, and the condensation takes place some distance below the saucer. As one side of the cylinder will not rarely be a little colder than the other, ascending currents can often be noticed on the one side, descending on the other. If the warm part is cooled, the currents change direction.

Why He Wouldn't Shoot.

A guardsman the other day was discussing politics in a public house in the Edgeware road with two seedy Hyde Park orators.

"Tell us," they asked him, "if one day the downtrodden British workman were to revolt, would you fire on him?"

"Never!"

"You're one of the right sort. You must have a drink with us. Three pints, please."

After they had drunk the soldier's health one of them casually asked:

"How many men like yourself can we count on in your barracks?"

"All the band. They will all act as myself. I play on the big drum, you know," the guardsman quietly remarked as he finished the contents of his glass.—London Answers.

One Too Much For Him.

Professor—Now, you have seen that these experiments can be more successfully performed with perfectly pure water than with any other. Who can tell me how to obtain the purest water known?

Student—Boil it.

Professor—Right. Now, how is water boiled?

Student—By putting it on the fire.

Professor—Right again. Now, how is the fire made?

Student (hesitating)—Er—professor, I'm not a married man.—Strand Magazine.

The Paris cabman turns to the right and the London cabbie to the left. The former sits always on the box in front of his vehicle. The latter is often perched behind it.

Self Denial.

Mrs. Grace—They say that men think only of themselves, but it isn't so. I'm sure Charles is the most unselfish of mortals.

Mrs. Blaze—As for example?

Mrs. Grace—Why, he says he is never happy but when he is with me, and he stays out evening after evening. There, isn't that self denial for you?—Boston Transcript.

Embarrassed.

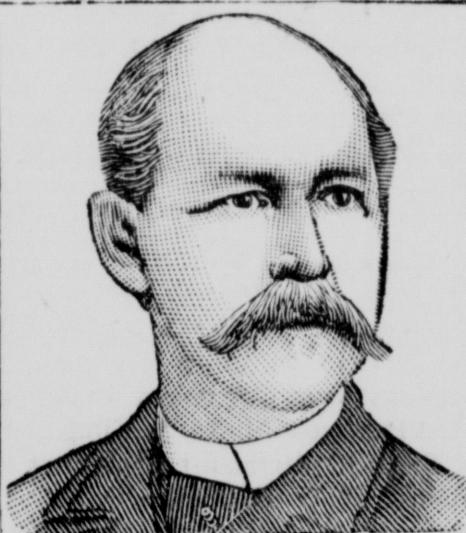

First Chorus Girl—I do feel so queer in these short skirts!

Second Chorus Girl—I know. We all feel that way at the start, but you will get used to it.

Now seriously, my fellow citizens, do you think it is the best thing to do for our common cause to stir up a feeling among our people on this question? That a division of opinion exists no one will deny, and is there not danger that petitions and counter-petitions may result in prejudicing the patrons of our schools against whoever is chosen? Would it not be best for all to allow the board full freedom to settle this matter as your representatives? I believe they are all honest men who will do what they believe to be right. Personally, I shall welcome your petition, if you think that is the right thing to do, but after all my vote will be an individual act for which I must render an account to God, and conscience must have the right of way. But whatever the decision is, if I am in the minority I shall move to make it unanimous, and extend heart and hand to give our schools a royal advent into the twentieth century.

Yours,
J. C. McCLAIN.

ENGLISH LAWSUITS.

They Are Expensive, and the Lawyers Demand Big Fees and Retainers.

In England there are many fees to be paid by the unhappy client of a lawyer that are unknown here in America. There is a retaining fee, which is a guinea, and a half crown to the clerk, besides the brief fee, which is more important. Then there is the "refresher" of the leader and the "refreshers" of the subordinate lawyers. In England the leader's refreshment, which is due after five hours, the brief fee being supposed to cover only the getting up of the case, is 10 guineas, or a little over $50, while $25 must be paid to the lesser lawyers.

According to English etiquette, no counsel can leave his circuit to plead in another without a special retainer, which, in most cases, cannot be less than 300 guineas. This is probably to discourage "poaching."

A would be client once wrote to a famous American lawyer, stating a case for his opinion and inclosing a $20 note. The lawyer did not reply, whereupon the client wrote a second letter and received word from the lawyer that he had read the case and formed an opinion, but somehow it stuck in his throat. The client took the hint and sent a $100 note, receiving the lawyer's opinion by the next mail.

Nobody does anything for nothing, especially a lawyer. Lord Mansfield was so sensible of this that on one occasion, when he had attended to some legal business for himself, he took some guineas out of his purse and put them in his waistcoat pocket to give him the necessary stimulus. Sir Anthony Malone, an Irish attorney general, was so imprudent as to forget this fact and was grievously punished for it, for he was so inattentive to some property of his that he lost $15,000 a year by it, and in the future he required his clerk to make abstract deeds of any property he might buy and lay them before him, with a fee of 5 guineas, properly indorsed, which the clerk was to scrupulously account for, after which Sir Anthony made no more mistakes in regard to his own property.—Chicago News.

HE TRICKED JAY GOULD.

How Jim Fisk Checked Out the Little Man's Bank Account.

Goould kept a balance of some $30,000 in the Tenth National bank for his personal account, household expenses, etc. Being called west on a mission that lasted several weeks, he left his check-book locked in the safe drawer, to which Fisk had a key. In the office was a clever young clerk whom Fisk had caught in the act of imitating his and Goould's signatures, the imitation of Goould's being a facsimile. Within an hour after the wizard's departure check-book and clerk were together under Fisk's supervision, and at his instigation more than a dozen blank checks were signed with the name of Jay Goould, and in the course of a month the $30,000 had disappeared, Fisk being at that time in the clutches of Josie Mansfield.

On the very day of Goould's return the bank sent a notice of overdraft. The little man nearly fainted. He had several fits. His excitement was intense. He declared that there was a conspiracy to ruin him. He hastened to the bank, and they showed him the checks, signed by himself they did not doubt, and he raved and tore his hair. Nor could he doubt the signature. It was genuine, even in his own eyes. A rigid investigation was started, which Fisk put an end to by informing Goould, with many a poke in the ribs, that he had drawn and used the money.

"Did Fisk make good?" an innocent asked when the story was told. "Return the $30,000?" was the reply. "If Fisk had returned it, Wall street would have cried."—New York Press.

Channel Island Despotism.

It is not generally known that something approaching a military despotism prevails in the Channel islands. Every male adult born in Guernsey or Jersey has to serve for a long term of years in the militia, 15 years being the period in Guernsey.

In addition to this, all males of 32 years of age and under, of whatever nationality, who reside in that island for a year and a day continuously have to enter the militia and serve for 15 years, or suffer fine, imprisonment or expulsion.

During the last two or three years a great number of young Englishmen have settled in Guernsey to go into the tomato raising industry.

In order to avoid the military service imposed by the "states"—as the government of Guernsey is called—they make frequent trips outside their jurisdiction—either to England or to Jersey—the last named having a government independent of the rest of the Channel islands.—London Letter.

Some time ago the queen of Italy asked a little girl to knit her a pair of silk mittens for her birthday, giving her the money for the material. A pair of beautifully worked mittens arrived on the queen's birthday. The little girl received in return another pair. One mitten contained lire, the other bonbons. Queen Marguerite inclosed a little note saying, "Tell me, my dear child, which you like best." The reply ran as follows:

Salaries in the Church of England.

As matters now stand it costs a pretty penny to maintain the pomp of that church of which "the queen is the supreme governor on earth."

The salary of the primate (archbishop of Canterbury) is the goodly sum of $75,000 per annum, punctually paid. The archbishop of York has $50,000; the bishop of London, $50,000; the bishop of Durham, $35,000; the bishop of Winchester, $32,500; the bishop of Bangor, $21,000; the bishop of Bath and Wells, $25,000; the bishop of Ely, $27,500; of Gloucester, $25,000; of Chester, $21,000; of Exeter, $21,000; of Hereford, Lichfield, Liverpool, Llandaff, Manchester, Ripon, St. Asaph, $21,000 each; of Carlisle, Lincoln, Norwich, Peterborough, St. Davids, $22,500 each; Oxford, Salisbury, Worcester, $25,000 each; Newcastle, $16,000; Rochester, $19,000; St. Albans, $16,000; Sodor and Man, $9,000; Southwell, $17,500; Truro, $15,000; Wakefield, $15,000, and then think of the army of deans, bishops suffragan, canons, etc., and one may infer that the Church of England is an expensive institution, representing a very high average of cost for each soul brought to grace.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Rain in a Bottle.

Engineering reports L. Errera as describing in Terre et Ciel a very simple method of producing rain, not of water, but of alcohol, and the winds which accompany its formation. A glass cylinder about 8 inches high and 4 inches in diameter is half filled with alcohol of 92 per cent, the cylinder being covered with an ordinary china saucer and slowly heated in a water bath, so that the whole becomes warm without beginning to boil. The vessel is then taken out of the bath and placed on a table, when vapors soon begin to condense on the saucer, clouds form and tiny regular drops fall down in vertical lines into the alcohol. The drops have an average diameter of forty or fifty millionths of a millimeter, but vary in size, the rain continuing for half an hour. The upper part soon clears, and the condensation takes place some distance below the saucer. As one side of the cylinder will not rarely be a little colder than the other, ascending currents can often be noticed on the one side, descending on the other. If the warm part is cooled, the currents change direction.

Why He Wouldn't Shoot.

A guardsman the other day was discussing politics in a public house in the Edgeware road with two seedy Hyde Park orators.

"Tell us," they asked him, "if one day the downtrodden British workman were to revolt, would you fire on him?"

"Never!"

"You're one of the right sort. You must have a drink with us. Three pints, please."

After they had drunk the soldier's health one of them casually asked:

"How many men like yourself can we count on in your barracks?"

"All the band. They will all act as myself. I play on the big drum, you know," the guardsman quietly remarked as he finished the contents of his glass.—London Answers.

One Too Much For Him.

Professor—Now, you have seen that these experiments can be more successfully performed with perfectly pure water than with any other. Who can tell me how to obtain the purest water known?

Student—Boil it.

Professor—Right. Now, how is water boiled?

Student—By putting it on the fire.

Professor—Right again. Now, how is the fire made?

Student (hesitating)—Er—professor, I'm not a married man.—Strand Magazine.

Self Denial.

Mrs. Grace—They say that men think only of themselves, but it isn't so. I'm sure Charles is the most unselfish of mortals.

Mrs. Blaze—As for example?

Mrs. Grace—Why, he says he is never happy but when he is with me, and he stays out evening after evening. There, isn't that self denial for you?—Boston Transcript.

The Firemen Fought Fire on the Lisbon Road.

HENRY M'GILL'S HOUSE BURNED

The Blaze Was Hard to Reach, and Had Gained Such Headway Before the Department Arrived That the Building Was Almost Destroyed.

A house on the Lisbon road owned by Henry McGill was almost totally destroyed by fire Sunday night. The department was soon on the scene, responding to an alarm sent in from patrol box 252. The fire was a stubborn one, and the cause of it is not known. Babcocks was used in fighting the flames, as the water pressure was not enough to allow the use of hose. After the firemen had worked for almost three hours the fire was extinguished.

The dwelling was frame, and when the firemen arrived they found the fire had been burning under the stairway leading to the second floor. A lot of plaster was torn down and fire was also found in the wall. Most of the furniture was taken from the house, and as the insurance is $800 the loss is covered.

An alarm took the department to a house owned by Isaac Knowles in Third street yesterday soon after noon. The streets were full of people, and a great crowd soon collected. A little work on the part of the department extinguished the flames. The damage was $25. John Mallron occupied the house.

THE VISIT OF THE MIDGETS.

The Opera House Will No Doubt Be Packed—Secure Seats.

There will be a full rehearsal of the Midgets at the opera house this evening at 8 o'clock.

Fred H. Decker & Co., of New York, who control the right of this cantata, will be here to give it a complete staging. The young people of the city have been hard at work now for several weeks in the preparation of this new and popular cantata and all are looking forward to its presentation with a great deal of interest. The success that has attended the cantata throughout our state is well known to us, and we are exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure a production of this kind. A visit to the Mystic Midgets will repay the children of a larger growth, and a glimpse behind the scenes reveals the love of the mysteries and the wonders of fairyland. All the favorite characters will be there. The policeman, the prince, the Chinaman, the cute little coons, Uncle Sam, and many others, whom we greet as old friends, and while their latest adventures are quite as interesting and captivating as those of former days.

The cantata opens on the Isle of Flowers. The meeting of the fairies on the first of June and the celebrating of the anniversary of the flowers. The queen organizes her court, but is interrupted by a mysterious visitor, one of the gnomes in disguise. A serious council then takes place. They are made happy by the arrival of a carrier dove bearing a message to the queen from the Mystic Midgets who propose making a tour of the world and landing on this island. The prince has with him his magic wand which is able to conquer all things, aye even hearts.

After the representatives of each nation have introduced themselves to the fairies, the golden chest is delivered containing the magic wand, but the key is forgotten in the hurry. The chest is afterward stolen by the mischievous gnomes, containing the magic wand. The prince pledges his assistance to the queen and at the head of his standing army starts for the fray. After numerous conflicts with the enemy, they are finally routed and the power of the magic wand tested. The gnomes are then turned into donkeys, hogs, pigs, bears, etc., and made to dance and amuse the assembled guests. The queen gives her hand in marriage to the prince, forever uniting the Mystic Midgets and the fairies. The picture that is presented in the rendering of the different marches, minuets, tableaux, etc., given under the various shades from the calcium lights is beautiful beyond description. There has been a large call for seats already. Many available seats are yet to be had and it would be well to make a selection early, as all of our people should see this new and popular cantata, given at the opera house June 3 and 4, under the auspices of the young people of the Presbyterian church.

MYTHS OF HISTORY.

THEY CUT A WIDE SWATH IN THE FANCY OF NOVELISTS.

Pen Pictures of the Past That Read Well, but Do Not Bear Close Investigation. When Our Turn Comes, the Scribes Will Revel in Schemes Undreamed of Now.

While it may not be quite true, it is very nearly true that the historical novel is entertaining entirely on account of its improbabilities. We possess a smattering of general information. At least we so flatter ourselves. History is for us not quite a closed book. We know Caesar and Hannibal and Napoleon and Oliver Cromwell and Henri Quatre and Richelieu and the Man in the Iron Mask, perhaps even a few others. And when in company with the hero of the historical novel we are ushered into the royal presence, we bow and smirk and grimace amazingly and knowingly. "Charles I? Certainly. His majesty and we are old friends. We possess secrets which his majesty would give his crown and kingdom to know. M. Posterity has confided to us stories that would cause his majesty's royal hairs to stand on end like quills upon the fretful porcupine. Don't try to gull us with appearances. We know all about what's coming. The gracious smile which now illumines his majesty's kingly lips is, oh, so droll! How about Whitehall and the block and the ax? Ha, ha! We are delighted to see his majesty in such excellent spirits."

It is to this faculty of making the reader feel knowing, of impressing upon him his own superiority and the correctness of his own retrospective surmises and decisions, that the makers of historical romance owe in a great part their vogue and popularity. Then out at the elbows soldiers of fortune—nay, even the wine drawers, the innkeepers and the scullery maids whom we meet in the historical romance—somehow manage to plot and scheme and hobnob with the very greatest personages of all times. If a mysterious figure is introduced, of course there is a great personality behind it. The exigencies of the trade make this imperative. From a muffled cloak we will accept a great duke with fairly becoming grace. A disguised voice and stealthy, overcautious demeanor demand a king or a hero who, in history's pages, looms up as mighty or mightier than a king.

Wonder might justly be expressed that a simple soldier of fortune of the Quentin Durward, D'Artagnan ilk should be of such supreme importance to the welfare of nations and the safety of kings. To deny either the Scot or the Gascon would surely be outright heresy. They embody old Caledonia and old France—as we see them. But the collective possibilities that are necessary to give the historical romance fire and go, make in the end it must be acknowledged, a pretty strong chain of improbabilities. To thoroughly appreciate this one would have to read the historical romance that is to deal with our day and to be written 12 score years hence. This, alas, we cannot do! What a screaming farce it will be when it comes! Will it not read like the ravings of a madman? How ludicrous will be the complications! What an extraordinary age our own will seem! But the drollest feature of all will be the sublime gravity, the supreme sincerity with which the whole will be accepted by the reader of that future day. How is it that, in an age like our own, when there are a publisher and a market for every literary conceit and absurdity, no one has thought to anticipate this, the historical romance of the future. Surely it would not be all burlesque.

What marvelous things those scribes will be telling of our age and civilization! What strange and darkling events will be made to take place at our very doors! The mysteries that are to be cleared up are as nothing to those which are to be invented. Our nights and days will be given over to tragic intrigues and fell deeds. Murder will stalk our streets. Swords will leap and cross, knives will gleam, pistols will crack along Broadway, or, if we prefer, Regent street, or the Ringstrasse, or Unter den Linden, or the Boulevard des Capucines. The great pair will be supreme. All this will come to pass when the scribes of the twenty-second century sit down to the task of writing their historical novels. And then—other heroes. How mum they are keeping themselves! Why don't they come out of the darkness and mystery and shadow and amuse the age with the narrative of those thrilling and soul stirring adventures with which the romancers of the future will credit them? We know that when the arbitration question is settled and both the United States and England are freed from the possibilities of a hideous and devastating war, it is not her majesty, the queen of Great Britain and empress of India, or the president, or the prime minister, or the secretary of state, who brought it about. Oh, no! That might do very well to gull and beguile and cajole the poor, ignorant masses. The real power behind the throne is the impoverished soldier of fortune, of whom the romance of the historical novelists of the future will tell us. What nets he will spread! What strange and unholy influences he will bring to bear! What ingenuity, cunning, valor, patience, will he employ before the great scheme is consummated and history is made! What dangers he will encounter! What fearful odds he will overcome! We know he is here. Could we doubt the historical romance of the future? We see the result, we reap its benefit, but the cause, the colossal nobody whose machinations brought it all about, where is he? Let him stand forth that the age may do him honor!—New York Advertiser.

Painful Embarrassment.

Two of the smallest men in the city were standing at the curbstone waiting for a car. Their conversation had been about the traditional feminine tendency to extravagance and the difficulty they had in keeping their domestic expenditures down to what they considered a reasonable limit.

"There they are now," exclaimed one of them.

"Who?"

"Our wives. And I'll bet they've been shopping."

"They seem to be talking very earnestly about spending something."

"I'll bet I can tell what my wife is talking about."

"Are you a mind reader?"

"No. But I can make a guess on that subject. I'll bet you a dinner I can anyhow."

"I'll take it."

"All right. She's talking about spending money. We'll go up behind them and overhear what they are saying to prove it."

They crossed the street, and the originator of the idea smiled knowingly as his wife opened her purse and peered into it. "My dear," she said to her companion, "have you any change?"

"Yes, a little."

"Well, would you mind lending me a penny to buy a postal card?"

"Certainly, if I have one. Oh, yes. Here it is."

"Thank you ever so much. I have 5 cents, but I hate to use it. A nickel always seems to go so fast after you once break it."

The man who offered the wager had won it, but for some reason he didn't seem proud.—Washington Star.

FOR THREE LONG HOURS

The Firemen Fought Fire on the Lisbon Road.

HENRY MCGILL'S HOUSE BURNED

The Blaze Was Hard to Reach, and Had Gained Such Headway Before the Department Arrived That the Building Was Almost Destroyed.

A house on the Lisbon road owned by Henry McGill was almost totally destroyed by fire Sunday night. The department was soon on the scene, responding to an alarm sent in from patrol box 252. The fire was a stubborn one, and the cause of it is not known. Babcocks was used in fighting the flames, as the water pressure was not enough to allow the use of hose. After the firemen had worked for almost three hours the fire was extinguished.

The dwelling was frame, and when the firemen arrived they found the fire had been burning under the stairway leading to the second floor. A lot of plaster was torn down and fire was also found in the wall. Most of the furniture was taken from the house, and as the insurance is $800 the loss is covered.

An alarm took the department to a house owned by Isaac Knowles in Third street yesterday soon after noon. The streets were full of people, and a great crowd soon collected. A little work on the part of the department extinguished the flames. The damage was $25. John Mallron occupied the house.

THE VISIT OF THE MIDGETS.

The Opera House Will No Doubt Be Packed—Secure seats.

There will be a full rehearsal of the Midgets at the opera house this evening at 8 o'clock.

Fred H. Decker & Co., of New York, who control the right of this cantata, will be here to give it a complete staging. The young people of the city have been hard at work now for several weeks in the preparation of this new and popular cantata and all are looking forward to its presentation with a great deal of interest. The success that has attended the cantata throughout our state is well known to us, and we are exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure a production of this kind. A visit to the Mystic Midgets will well repay the children of a larger growth, and a glimpse behind the scenes reveals the love of the mysteries and the wonders of fairyland. All the favorite characters will be there. The policeman, the prince, the Chinaman, the cute little coms, Uncle Sam, and many others, whom we greet as old friends, and while their latest adventures are quite as interesting and captivating as those of former days.

The cantata opens on the Isle of Flowers. The meeting of the fairies on the first of June and the celebrating of the anniversary of the flowers. The queen organizes her court, but is interrupted by a mysterious visitor, one of the gnomes in disguise. A serious council then takes place. They are made happy by the arrival of a carrier dove bearing a message to the queen from the Mystic Midgets who propose making a tour of the world and landing on this island. The prince has with him his magic wand which is able to conquer all things, aye even hearts.

After the representatives of each nation have introduced themselves to the fairies, the golden chest is delivered containing the magic wand, but the key is forgotten in the hurry. The chest is afterward stolen by the mischievous gnomes, containing the magic wand. The prince pledges his assistance to the queen and at the head of his standing army starts for the fray. After numerous conflicts with the enemy, they are finally routed and the power of the magic wand tested. The gnomes are then turned into donkeys, hogs, pigs, bears, etc., and made to dance and amuse the assembled guests. The queen gives her hand in marriage to the prince, forever uniting the Mystic Midgets and the fairies. The picture that is presented in the rendering of the different marches, minuets, tableaux, etc., given under the various shades from the calum lights is beautiful beyond description. There has been a large call for seats already. Many available seats are yet to be had and it would be well to make a selection early, as all of our people should see this new and popular cantata, given at the opera house June 3 and 4, under the auspices of the young people of the Presbyterian church.

MYTHS OF HISTORY.

THEY CUT A WIDE SWATH IN THE FANCY OF NOVELISTS.

Pen Pictures of the Past That Read Well, but Do Not Bear Close Investigation. When Our Turn Comes, the Scribes Will Revel in Schemes Undreamed of Now.

While it may not be quite true, it is very nearly true that the historical novel is entertaining entirely on account of its improbabilities. We possess a smattering of general information. At least we so flatter ourselves. History is for us not quite a closed book. We know Caesar and Hannibal and Napoleon and Oliver Cromwell and Henri Quatre and Richelieu and the Man in the Iron Mask, perhaps even a few others. And when in company with the hero of the historical novel we are ushered into the royal presence, we bow and smirk and grimace amazingly and knowingly. "Charles! Certainly. His majesty and we are old friends. We possess secrets which his majesty would give his crown and kingdom to know. M. Posterity has confided to us stories that would cause his majesty's royal hairs to stand on end like quills upon the fretful porcupine. Don't try to gull us with appearances. We know all about what's coming. The gracious smile which now illumines his majesty's kingly lips is, oh, so droll! How about Whitehall and the block and the ax? Ha, ha! We are delighted to see his majesty in such excellent spirits."

It is to this faculty of making the reader feel knowing, of impressing upon him his own superiority and the correctness of his own retrospective surmises and decisions, that the makers of historical romance owe in a great part their vogue and popularity. Then out at the elbows soldiers of fortune—nay, even the wine drawers, the innkeepers and the scullery maids whom we meet in the historical romance—somehow manage to plot and scheme and hobnob with the very greatest personages of all times. If a mysterious figure is introduced, of course there is a great personality behind it. The exigencies of the trade make this imperative. From a muffled cloak we will accept a great duke with fairly becoming grace. A disguised voice and stealthy, overcautious demeanor demand a king or a hero who, in history's pages, looms up as mighty or mightier than a king.

Wonder might justly be expressed that a simple soldier of fortune of the Quentin Durward, D'Artagnan ilk should be of such supreme importance to the welfare of nations and the safety of kings. To deny either the Scot or the Gascon would surely be outright heresy. They embody old Caledonia and old France—as we see them. But the collective possibilities that are necessary to give the historical romance fire and go, make in the end it must be acknowledged, a pretty strong chain of improbabilities. To thoroughly appreciate this one would have to read the historical romance that is to deal with our day and to be written 12 score years hence. This, alas, we cannot do! What a screaming farce it will be when it comes! Will it not read like the ravings of a madman? How ludicrous will be the complications! What an extraordinary age our own will seem! But the drollest feature of all will be the sublime gravity, the supreme sincerity with which the whole will be accepted by the reader of that future day. How is it that, in an age like our own, when there are a publisher and a market for every literary conceit and absurdity, no one has thought to anticipate this, the historical romance of the future. Surely it would not be all burlesque.

What marvelous things those scribes will be telling of our age and civilization! What strange and darkling events will be made to take place at our very doors! The mysteries that are to be cleared up are as nothing to those which are to be invented. Our nights and days will be given over to tragic intrigues and fell deeds. Murder will stalk our streets. Swords will leap and cross, knives will gleam, pistols will crack along Broadway, or, if we prefer, Regent street, or the Ringstrasse, or Unter den Linden, or the Boulevard des Capucines. The great peer will be supreme. All this will come to pass when the scribes of the twenty-second century sit down to the task of writing their historical novels. And then—other heroes. How mum they are keeping themselves! Why don't they come out of the darkness and mystery and shadow and amuse the age with the narrative of those thrilling and soul stirring adventures with which the romancers of the future will credit them? We know that when the arbitration question is settled and both the United States and England are freed from the possibilities of a hideous and devastating war, it is not her majesty, the queen of Great Britain and empress of India, or the president, or the prime minister, or the secretary of state, who brought it about. Oh, no! That might do very well to gull and beguile and cajole the poor, ignorant masses. The real power behind the throne is the impoverished soldier of fortune, of whom the romance of the historical novelists of the future will tell us. What nets he will spread! What strange and unholy influences he will bring to bear! What ingenuity, cunning, valor, patience, will he employ before the great scheme is consummated and history is made! What dangers he will encounter! What fearful odds he will overcome! We know he is here. Could we doubt the historical romance of the future? We see the result, we reap its benefit, but the cause, the colossal nobody whose machinations brought it all about, where is he? Let him stand forth that the age may do him honor!—New York Advertiser.

Painful Embarrassment.

Two of the smallest men in the city were standing at the curbstone waiting for a car. Their conversation had been about the traditional feminine tendency to extravagance and the difficulty they had in keeping their domestic expenditures down to what they considered a reasonable limit.

"There they are now," exclaimed one of them.

"Who?"

"Our wives. And I'll bet they've been shopping."

"They seem to be talking very earnestly about spending something."

"I'll bet I can tell what my wife is talking about."

"Are you a mind reader?"

"No. But I can make a guess on that subject. I'll bet you a dinner I can anyhow."

"I'll take it."

"All right. She's talking about spending money. We'll go up behind them and overhear what they are saying to prove it."

They crossed the street, and the originator of the idea smiled knowingly as his wife opened her purse and peered into it. "My dear," she said to her companion, "have you any change?"

"Yes, a little."

"Well, would you mind lending me a penny to buy a postal card?"

"Certainly, if I have one. Oh, yes. Here it is."

"Thank you ever so much. I have 5 cents, but I hate to use it. A nickel always seems to go so fast after you once break it."

The man who offered the wager had won it, but for some reason he didn't seem proud.—Washington Star.

Wanted Damages.

Of those would be litigants who, like Hotspur, "in the way of bargain," will "cair on the ninth part of a hair," a Kentucky lawyer tells in the Louisville Courier-Journal this good story:

I was in my partner's office at Brownville one day, when a tall, lank native, about 50 years of age, came in. After he had warmed himself we inquired of him his business. To the inquiry he replied:

"I want ter bring suit ag'in old man H.'s estate. During the war he drafted me for service, and when I showed up he said he di'n't need me. Ef I had 'a' went in, I would have been a-drawin a pension now, and I want ter sue him fer damages fer keepin me from drawin a pension."

When we told him that his cause for action was no good, he shambled out of the office and remarked that "there was no justice in law nohow."

CHANGED TO TOMORROW

Patrick Malone's Trial Will Begin In the Morning.

JURYMEN ARE BEING NOTIFIED

Sheriff Gill Is Also Calling In the Witnesses—There Were a Few Vacant Days In Court, and Judge Smith and Prosecutor Speaker Decided on the Change.

LISBON, June 1—[Special]—Arrangements were completed this morning between the court and Prosecutor Speaker, and the trial of Patrick Malone for the murder of William Geisse four weeks ago, will be called tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The trial was set several weeks ago for Friday morning, but owing to the fact that other work assigned for tomorrow had been postponed 71 witnesses and 38 jurors already subpoenaed for Thursday will be notified by Sheriff Gill to appear tomorrow morning. The trial will likely occupy the remainder of the week.

The cases of West and Rinehart against Liverpool to recover judgment for the vehicle tax paid the city, will be heard in the near future on demurs filed this morning by the city. They allege that the petitions do not allege facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt Was Scandalized.

A debating society pursued an erratic existence nearly a score of years ago on the North Side, and the boys—now well known men—have told many laughable instances of its checkered career.

Driven from one home to another, the members, on promise of good behavior, induced the Lincoln Park Congregational church to allow them the privilege of meeting in one of the anterooms.

The first meeting, by ill luck, fell on prayer meeting night.

The details of the evening are told by one of the members.

"The prayer meeting, in the adjoining room, had just reached its most devout stage when our boys fully woke up to their evening's programme. Daniel Sullivan, now assistant state attorney, was in the chair and called upon David Maxwell, at present of Maxwell Bros., box manufacturers, for a song.

"The solemn tones of prayer rose from the other room, when Dave took the restrum and started to sing in a loud voice the classic lines of 'The Hungry Man From Bremer Street.'

Neither the song nor the prayer was ever finished. Rev. Henry Leavitt rushed into our meeting, white with anger.

"Get out of here!" he shouted. 'Don't you ever show your faces inside of this room again! You are worse than the thieves whom Christ cast out of the synagogue!' "—Chicago Record.

Sheriff Gill Is Also Calling In the Witnesses—There Were a Few Vacant Days In Court, and Judge Smith and Prosecutor Speaker Decided on the Change.

LISBON, June 1—[Special]—Arrangements were completed this morning between the court and Prosecutor Speaker, and the trial of Patrick Malone for the murder of William Geisse four weeks ago, will be called tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The trial was set several weeks ago for Friday morning, but owing to the fact that other work assigned for tomorrow had been postponed 71 witnesses and 38 jurors already subpoenaed for Thursday will be notified by Sheriff Gill to appear tomorrow morning. The trial will likely occupy the remainder of the week.

The cases of West and Rinehart against Liverpool to recover judgment for the vehicle tax paid the city, will be heard in the near future on demurs filed this morning by the city. They allege that the petitions do not allege facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt Was Scandalized.

A debating society pursued an erratic existence nearly a score of years ago on the North Side, and the boys—now well known men—have told many laughable instances of its checkered career.

Driven from one home to another, the members, on promise of good behavior, induced the Lincoln Park Congregational church to allow them the privilege of meeting in one of the auterrooms. The first meeting, by ill luck, fell on prayer meeting night.

The details of the evening are told by one of the members.

"The prayer meeting, in the adjoining room, had just reached its most devout stage when our boys fully woke up to their evening's programme. Daniel Sullivan, now assistant state attorney, was in the chair and called upon David Maxwell, at present of Maxwell Bros., box manufacturers, for a song.

"The solemn tones of prayer rose from the other room, when Dave took the restrum and started to sing in a loud voice the classic lines of 'The Hungry Man From Bremer Street.'

Neither the song nor the prayer was ever finished. Rev. Henry Leavitt rushed into our meeting, white with anger.

"Get out of here!" he shouted. "Don't you ever show your faces inside of this room again! You are worse than the thieves whom Christ cast out of the synagogue!"—Chicago Record.

are inconvenient during the day and destroy rest at night. They make life a misery instead of a blessing. They affect many persons after they reach the age of 40, and are usually accompanied by a decay of vital power. They can be

CURED

I have had inflammation of kidneys and bladder and have been a great sufferer from both for years. I tried a box of Hobb's Sparagus Pills and after five days of use can say with impunity, that it was the only remedy that I used that relieved me at all. Have had several physicians who treated me with indifferent success. I can heartily recommend them. I am 82 years old.
